MAJOR BROWN REFUSES TO SIGN SUNDAY THEATRE LICENSES

Theatre Managers Forced to Close Their Houses Next Sunday—Mayor's Recognition of Theatre Men Based on Fifty Per Cent. Charity Fund Contribution

Seven local theatres, including motion picture houses and R. M. Keith's, will not open next Sunday as Mayor Brown refused to sign their applications for licenses this noon.

One theatre manager said a conference with the mayor, during which the latter stated that his views on Sunday concerts had not changed, that he did not recognize the Sunday entertainment as a business and that he would not sign any application for a license. Also, it is said, that the mayor expressed himself as not desiring to see other theatre men who were waiting for none now in the office of the city messenger.

PUBLIC SERVICE BOARD WILL FIX SALARIES

Considerable interest is being shown in the contemplated action of the board of public service in fixing the salaries of the city engineer, superintendent of streets and superintendent of water works, who were elected by the board a few days ago.

At present none of the three men knows what his salary for 1922 will be and, unless an announcement is made by the board, this fact will not be determined until the salary pay rolls are made for the first of February.

SUPPLIES ARE REPORTED MISSING

Mayor George H. Brown today sent his private secretary, Joseph A. Cloutier, with two assistants to the Chelmsford Street hospital, with instructions to make a complete survey and inventory of the stock and equipment now at the hospital, keeping a particular eye upon provisions stored there.

"I have done this," said the mayor, "so that I may ascertain the exact amount of stock on hand and the general condition of things at the hospital."

Although it could not be definitely confirmed today, it was said that appraisers appointed by the mayor have finished an investigation of other city departments and institutions and that in one place a considerable amount of supplies could not be accounted for, although contracts and receipts for them were said to have been found.

Mayor Brown also said today that in one or two instances reports have come to him regarding the disappearance of supplies and material in different departments, and speaking for the mayor, City Collector Tierney said that he would take up any further reports of losses that might come to his attention, directly with the district attorney.

It was further stated by the mayor that he had discussed next Sunday as a benefit day for St. John's hospital and, after conferring over the telephone with Miss Rose Dowd, he informed the latter that all arrangements were in her hands—that she should see the theatre managers and make all the necessary arrangements.

That is the weather man's report for tomorrow, but Lowell folks are just now trying to get rid of several inches of snow that fell during the 75-mile-an-hour gale that struck the city unaware yesterday morning and made a bad name for itself when the results of the havoc suffered by electric lights, power and street railway companies was put on.

More than 100 extra men were engaged by the street railway company to keep its lines from a complete tie-up. Most of them worked all night. Today, another large gang was put on, every available workman going out to the line blockades reported in almost every section of the city.

It was a bad situation that confronted the snowplow men and line men this morning, but the morning's campaign resulted in most of the positions now being filled by them.

The positions now being filled by them are not necessary for the efficient conduct of the affairs of the department.

The letter further states that the suspended men are entitled to a public hearing, application for which must be made within three days from the receipt of the notification.

This information was given out to day by Mayor George H. Brown and City Collector Edward J. Tierney, the

ASSAULT WITH KNIFE

Lewis Street Grocer Fined for Using Knife on Louis Stomalos

Evangelos Pappoloneotes, a Lewis street grocer, was fined $10 by Judge Enright in district court today for assaulting a knife on Louis Stomalos on the morning of Dec. 24. It was alleged that the defendant cut Stomalos on the back of his left hand with a knife following an argument over the price of canned tomatoes. It was testified that Louis purchased macaroni, butter and lard, but before paying for those provisions, inquired about the price of tomatoes. When told he would have to pay 16 cents a can, Stomalos remonstrated, stating he could buy them in other stores at two cans for 25 cents.

The plaintiff told the court that Evangelos awoke at him and he, Stomalos, refused to buy the groceries, the storekeeper had already prepared for him. Pappoloneotes threatened to cut his head off. Stomalos testified, and following the passing of more heated words, the defendant attacked him with a knife, inflicting a severe cut on his left hand.

CEMETERY ROADS OPEN

The story that Prince William of Sweden had killed an African lion with his bare hands was taken with a grain of salt. But when he returned to Sweden he brought the above photo to show that he really had shot this mammoth gorilla on Mount Mikeno, Central Africa.

Quincy Granite Cutters Quit Work

QUINCY, Jan. 12.—The granite shops of this city were virtually without cutters today as a result of the protest action by the Granite Cutters' union against the request of manufacturers that the men accept a wage reduction of $2 a day. Approximately 500 men were said to have followed the union's decision to "refrain from work." James Duncan, president of the Granite Cutters' International association said that any wage reduction of this time would be a violation of the working agreement which runs until April 1. Under this agreement, he said, a daily wage of $8 was provided. Notices posted in the plants of members of the Granite Manufacturers' association, asked the men to accept a $6 wage.

462 MERRIMACK ST.

Here's the Story—

In just a short while we're going to take down our sign and move to our new store, which is rapidly being made ready for us at our new building, corner Dutton and Merrimack Sts.

Naturally, I don't want to move a bit more of our present stock than I have to. There are two reasons.

First—I want to start the new season in our new store with fresh new stock.

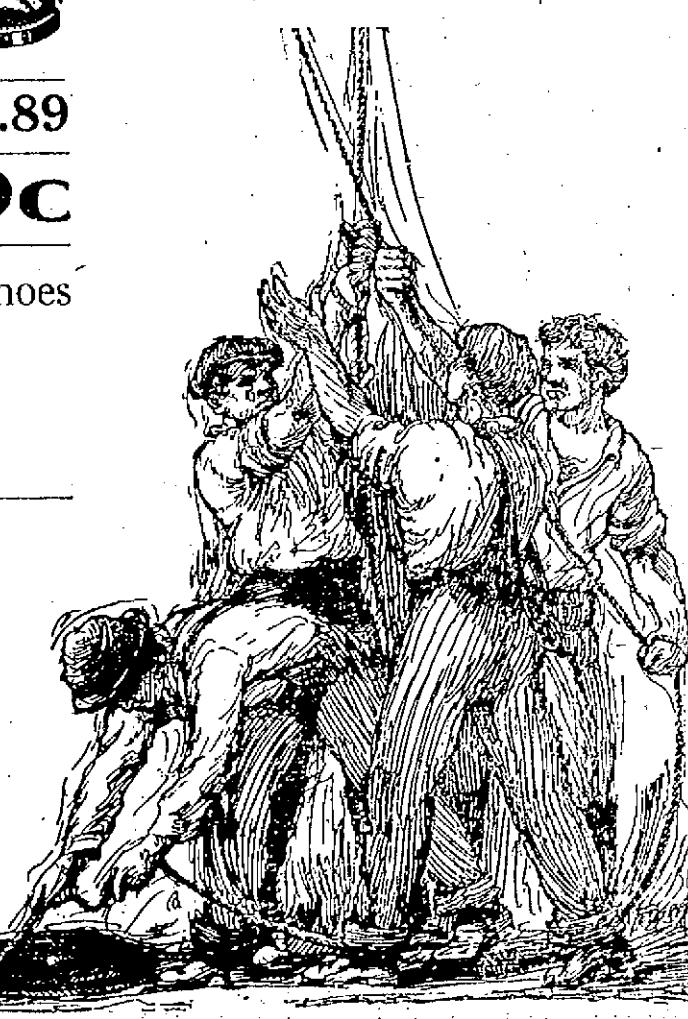

Second—There's the loss of handling and the cost of moving to be considered.

So, I'm going to leave the old store with the Greatest Sale of Shoes that I ever held.

That's going pretty strong, isn't it? But I mean it, every word. The blue pencil has been worked overtime cutting prices all the way through the store. We haven't missed a thing that I know about. It's a real "Bargain Party" for everybody, from baby to grandfather, and we want everyone of you to share the savings.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

By Theatres' Own Press Agents.

B. F. KELTH'S THEATRE
Funny Johnny Burke, who gives one a wholly humorous idea of army life, at the B. F. Keith Theatre this week, proves himself one of the very best monologists of the current season. He is original in much that he says and does, who looks at him might burst outright into laughter. He is the funny soldier, who gives his own title of being drafted. And that's the title of his turn. Of an entirely different character is "The Woman Who Knew," a comedy drama, originally known as "Madame's Lesson" and now by Adler and Dunbar in "A Study from Life," make a lot of good humor, while Miss Lois Bennett, the California nightingale, carries her audience with her at every performance. Other acts of the week are: Hart & Hecker, "The Love of the People," Hayakawa, Japanese ballerinas, and Josie O'Meers, queen of the wire.

MEGRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Don't miss the opportunities still remaining to witness "The Sheik," the George Melford Paramount production which is playing a week's engagement at the Megrimack Square Theatre. Starring Adria Ayres and Rudolph Valentino, two of the most capable stars of the screen, it is a photoplay that is bound to appeal to every theatregoer. "Mary Anderson in Too Much Married" is the second big feature for the week-end.

OPERA HOUSE

Good comedy, a bit of rather daring acting that is artistically and most commendably handled, an interesting story and some of the best characterizations seen on a local stock stage, all contribute in making "Scandal," the week's production by Miss Marguerite Fields and her own company at the Opera House, one of the most interesting and the most offerings that local audiences have enjoyed in seasons. Miss Fields herself is very amusing, while Harry Hollingsworth, the big, clever leading man of the company is making his mark, and some of the girls burst outright into laughter. He is the funny soldier, who gives his own title of being drafted. And that's the title of his turn. Of an entirely different character is "The Woman Who Knew," a comedy drama, originally known as "Madame's Lesson" and now by Adler and Dunbar in "A Study from Life," make a lot of good humor, while Miss Lois Bennett, the California nightingale, carries her audience with her at every performance. THE STRAND

An unusual story of the underworld and the far-reaching fingers of the police, detective will be seen in Goldwyn's newest screen success, "The Invisible Power" at The Strand this week-end, beginning today. The story was written by Charles Gordon, while Harry Hollingsworth, the big, clever leading man of the company is making his mark, and some of the girls burst outright into laughter. He is the funny soldier, who gives his own title of being drafted. And that's the title of his turn. At the first sign of a raw, sore throat rub on a little Musterole with your fingers.

It goes right to the spot with a gentle tingle, loosens congestion, draws out soreness and pain.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment made with oil of mustard. It has all the strength of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

Nothing like Musterole for a cramp.

Children. Keep it handy for instant use. 35c and 85c in jars and tubes; hospital size, 25c.

Residents of Lower Highlands Are Jubilant Over Purchase of Washington Park

That the residents of the Lower Highlands district are rejoicing over the recent purchase of Washington park by the city for playground purposes was fully demonstrated last evening, when over 300 men and boys braved the storm and gathered in the Notre Dame des Jourées parish hall in East 19th street, Lowell. In the publication held under the auspices of the Lower Highlands Improvement association, the organization which was mainly responsible for the purchase of the park. The program re-

Ends Stubborn Coughs in a Hurry

For real effectiveness, this old home-made remedy has no equal. Easily and cheaply prepared.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered until you try this famous old home-made remedy. Anyone who has coughed all day and all night, will say that the immediate relief given is almost like magic. It takes but a moment to prepare, and really there is nothing better for coughs. Into a pint bottle, put 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, the full pint saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly lessens a dry, hacking cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin and clear, then disappear altogether. A doctor will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and it is also splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness, and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "3½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction, or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

deemed great credit upon the committee in charge.

In attendance as guests were Mayor George H. Brown; Councillor Smith J. Adams, Rep. Adelard Berard, Thomas P. McKay and Supt. John W. Kieran, of the park board. Ex-Mayor Perry D. Thompson and the other members of the 1921 city council, who put the project through and had been invited to be present, but evidently the storm kept them away.

In the early part of the evening the Zouaves Drum Corps under the direction of Arthur Mallie rendered numbers and later there were vocal selections by George Merritt, George LaBrance, E. J. Larchelle and the Springfield City quartet composed of Raymond Chaudonnet, Emile Jobin, Leo Christian and George Corriveau. The accompanists were Henri Berard and Leo Lecloux.

Thomas J. Fitzgerald, president of the association, and chairman of the committee on the park proposition, presided over the evening's meeting and delivered an address of welcome. He explained the purpose of the gathering, stating that we, in rejoice over the purchase of the park, which would prove of great benefit to the entire community. He also stated that the association had more work on hand, for now that the park is owned by the city, it has to be equipped with the proper paraphernalia to make it attractive for the children.

"We have skating facilities at the park," continued Mr. Fitzgerald, "but we need settees and electric lights and we hope the park department will favor us with those improvements within a short time. We also want the park department to equip the grounds with swings and other apparatus which go to make a modern playground. Next summer we hope to have band concerts and moving pictures. I also believe it would be a wise move on the part of the city to sell by right of eminent domain the little cottage house and the land it occupies, on the Middlesex street entrance of the park for a Middlesex street entrance. I understand that Mr. Doherty, proprietor of Doherty's foundry, who owns a small strip of land near the park, is willing to give its use to the city for the abatement of taxes."

Mr. Fitzgerald then referred to the possibility of a park in that district, and said in his opinion it is far better for the city to spend $100,000 in a congested district than to spend a dollar where it is not needed. He made reference to the danger encountered by children who heretofore were forced to play in the street and said the parents of the district would now feel at ease, for their children will have a place for their amusements. In closing he paid a compliment to the members of the park department and extended to them the thanks of the association for the great part they took in bringing the project to a successful end.

The next speaker was Councillor Smith J. Adams, who informed his listeners that he has always been interested in public parks and said "that as long as he is a member of the city government he will always fight for the improvement of parks and playgrounds." "Through the good efforts of the park department," he said, "we now have Washington park, but our work is not finished and we shall continue with the same spirit until we receive what we want." He told of improvements needed in the new park to make it a beauty spot and closed by pledging his support for the welfare of the community.

Rev. Joseph A. Denis, O.M.I., assistant pastor of Notre Dame du Lourdes, who has been a tireless worker for the park project, told of his love for the boys of the district and said he rejoiced with the members of the association for the great work accomplished, for he did not believe in the beginning that the project would be carried through because of lack of money. He stated that in his opinion Washington park will become one of the most popular playgrounds in the city and said he believed in time it would be made one of the most attractive in the city.

Mayor Brown was next introduced and he also warmly congratulated the association for the good work accomplished. He said he realized the needs of the park in the line of improvements. He reminded his listeners that although the park was purchased by last year's government the burden of paying for the land rests upon the 1922 government. "We city officials are not at all anxious to realize the needs of the park," he said. "The mayor then told of his action in establishing an employment bureau, which he believes will be of great benefit to the citizens at large and he concluded by saying that during his term of office he will endeavor to make Lowell the cleanest, the healthiest and the most Christian city in the world.

Superintendent Kieran of the park department said in his opinion the two lots adjoining the park in Middlesex street should be taken over by the city. He said an abutment wall will be necessary, a fence should be built on the canal side of the park and the park should be equipped with the proper apparatus, which would not cost over $1,000. He promised his listeners to provide moving pictures and community singing for them next summer and closed by extending the regards of Commissioners Weed, Marden and Greene for not being able to be present.

Others who addressed the gathering were Park Commissioner McKay, Louis J. Lord, Representative Berard and Joseph Provost. The meeting was brought to a close with brief remarks in the French language by President Fitzgerald. At the close of the program an informal reception was held and a buffet luncheon was served, while cigars were passed.

The committee responsible for the purchase of the park and the success of the evening's solicitation consisted of the following: Thomas J. Fitzgerald, chairman; J. Joseph Beauparlant, Rev. Joseph A. Denis, O.M.I.; J. J. Jean, Victor F.F. Jewett, Rev. Adelard Berard, Councillor Smith J. Adams, Louis J. Lord and Joseph Provost.

DANCING PARTY IN LINCOLN HALL

Members of the Altar society of St. Michael's parish and their friends held an enjoyable dancing party in Lincoln hall last evening. The party was very well attended, although the weather conditions were not so favorable as might be wished. The dance was under the direction of the Altar society, the proceeds to go to the altar fund of the church. Rev. Thomas J. Hongey was in charge of general arrangements, and Mrs. Frank W. Morrissey assisted at the punch bowl.

I remember that when I had indigestion, was constipated, had a headache or my stomach was out of order, my mother would give me an old and reliable remedy called SEVEN BARIKS and it would straighten me out in no time, so I always keep a bottle in the home for emergencies.

Colds and Grippe frequently will leave you with weak kidneys and aching back. The kidneys get overworked fighting off a cold or a contagious disease. When the stomach is out of order, the kidneys and liver not working properly, a few doses of SEVEN BARIKS will stimulate the liver and kidneys, regulate the flow of bile, expel obtrusive acids and dangerous poisons, and quickly restore you back to good digestion.

For nearly half a century SEVEN BARIKS has been recognized as one of the most reliable remedies for correcting and preventing disorders of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. It is absolutely safe, made from the extracts of roots and herbs, scientifically blended.

If you have never tried SEVEN BARIKS do not fail to do so, and watch the rapid and wonderful results. Your druggist keeps it, or will get it for you.—Adv.

to inaugurate ordinary social relations, and each goes his separate way trying to make the best of circumstances unavoidable in an occupied area. Many German families of the upper class left Coblenz since the occupation began rather than put up with the inconveniences brought about in the matter of billeting, all of the occupied cities being short of housing and of fire space and consequently overcrowded.

Col. David L. Stone, representative of Gen. Allen on the Inter-allied Rhine land high commission, also addressed the officers, describing the organization and duties of the commission and the general effect of American participation in the Rhine land occupation. Col. Stone said many Americans and Europeans who had visited the area were of the opinion that, because of America's impartiality with regard to European affairs, the mere fact of American forces participating in the occupation and continuing to do so, would have a far-reaching influence upon the progress of stabilization of Central Europe.

Still greater effect would be shown, Col. Stone said, as the American forces displayed in themselves the traditional reputation of the United States for justice and square dealing to all and he urged every American officer to realize this and to impress the fact upon the enlisted men, that each and every American should do his own benefits are insisted that a new company be formed. The executives of the old company, therefore, are about to organize another one upon a plan which they may well contain the best features of the old concern, but with certain changes found necessary through experience.

A considerable series of strikes during this past year, coupled with business depression, was responsible for the failure of the old company the former management arrested.

It is pointed out that strike insurance has become standardized in Europe, where it is claimed, experience has proved it not only the practical means for distributing the money loss caused by strikes, but was even more useful in promoting unity of purpose among employers.

The old company was operated on a mutual basis with an assessment legally limited to an amount equal to the annual premium. Specific items insured by such a plan are the fixed charges, that is, all expenses which necessarily continue whether the plant is in operation or not.

Premium rates have a wide range. They vary according to the actual strike experience of each class of industry covering a period of many years, adjusted with regard to locality and the working conditions found in each establishment.

From the practical insurance viewpoint, the contract is really the standard

"Use and Occupancy" insurance, the chief difference being the cause of loss, which, in this case, is a strike instead of fire, explosion or other physical disaster.

Strike insurance, its advocates contend, is a business necessary to meet the needs caused by strikes. Besides, furnishing indemnity they argue that it affords a practical means of uniting employers of all industries and localities in the same way as the labor unions collectively act for the benefit of workers. They insist that it is not conceived in a spirit hostile to labor, but is a practical balance wheel between two parties who for the moment appear unable to agree. Convincing proof of this was furnished, they declared, by the number of strikes prevented; the early termination of others and unity of purpose developed among employers.

20,000 TO ATTEND

American Good Roads Congress Opens Jan. 17

CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 11.—Actual operation of road building machinery will be shown at the twelfth American Good Roads congress here on January 17 to 20. Twenty thousand delegates have been assured, according to the committees in charge and eight sessions of the congress will be held.

At one session a comparative design in road paving will be shown, at another, problems involving highway traffic will be discussed, while at a third, taxes, bond issues and problems of finance and highway administration will be taken up.

One of the unique features of the congress will be the presence of a number of women contractors who are prominent in road building circles. Prominent among these will be Miss Axel Bohm, of South Bend, Wis., who has just completed a four and a half mile state highway through Patterson State park, near Superior, Wis.

Another contractor engaged in road building, who will probably attend, is Miss Eva Crossay, of Everett, Mass., while still another is Dr. Lot Alta Melton, said to be the only woman bridge engineer in the country. Dr. Melton graduated from Colorado university and is now identified with one of the district offices of the United States bureau of public roads.

Another woman who will take part in the deliberations of the congress is Miss H. M. Berry of Chapel Hill, N. C., who is secretary of the North Carolina Good Roads association and who was instrumental in obtaining the $50,000,000 bond issue for the construction of roads in her state.

Harry Dennis, Jr., has just won a prize of $1,000 because he is the most perfect baby in five states—Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Michigan and Wisconsin.

He is the three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dennis, of 7 South Michigan Avenue, Battle Creek, Michigan.

The Most Perfect Baby in Five States!

HARRY DENNIS has made an enviable record for perfect health and physique. Not only was he Michigan's prize baby—for which he won $500—but also he has been adjudged the best baby in five states, winning $1,000 more.

"He has been raised on Eagle Brand," Mrs. Dennis writes us, though, of course, her own care and his fine constitution have been partly responsible for his splendid development.

Harry, Jr., was put through the most rigid and careful tests, and then retested. He competed against many thousands of fine, healthy children, so that his achievement is most exceptional.

Countless other mothers besides Mrs. Dennis have found that Eagle Brand makes strong, robust, sturdy children—perfect physically and of keen and active mentality. Thousands of them have testified to its benefits. Physicians recommend it for babies who are undernourished, weak and underweight. For

Eagle Brand is very easily digested and has proved itself invaluable in stubborn feeding cases.

Would YOU experiment with your baby's food?

What mother who has her baby's welfare at heart would experiment on him with foods whose purity is doubtful? Mother's milk is best for baby, of course. But if for any reason you cannot nurse your baby, don't take risks with him. Eagle Brand has been the standard baby food for sixty-four years. For three generations it has reared splendid, healthy little boys and girls—given them the fair start that every child ought to have.

Eagle Brand is not really a special or prepared food at all. It is milk—country milk and pure sugar. It is the natural food for children when mother's milk fails.

Ask your grocer

Eagle Brand is available everywhere. Any grocer has it. It is always sure, safe, dependable—uniform wherever and whenever you get it.

BAND OF BOY BURGLARS
CAUGHT IN CHELSEA

BOSTON, Jan. 12.—Another band boy burglar was rounded up in Chelsea yesterday. The average age of the four arrested is about 13 years. With them two older boys were taken, alleged to have received stolen property. They are Samuel Litvack, of 184 Chestnut st., and Samuel Daniborsky of 75 Elm st., Chelsea.

The police say the loot of this gang of boys will probably reach $2000. Each wore a wool-lined canvas coat with large wool collar. They said they dressed alike in order to be able to distinguish each other in the dark. Each lad had a long pinch bar, made of the finest steel. One end of the bar was ground to a razor edge and it would easily open any window. The other end of the bar was bent into a U, and the extremity of the U was made into a claw, like that of a hammer. With such instruments the lads easily ripped open freight cars and flour and went through a door almost as easily as if it had been open.

They had an elaborately developed system of signals, and by means of them a lookout could always warn the operators of danger. They became emboldened by their success and their operations the last few days were on an extensive scale.

Winthrop Woman Now Walks and Claims Recovery Due to Weldonia

"I am now able to do my work walking about after being confined to a wheel chair by rheumatism," said Mrs. L. M. Grundy, who lives at 294 Beaver street, Winthrop, Mass. She continued: "I suffered for five years from rheumatism. My knees were sore and stiff and I had to be lifted in and out of the chair and bring on a paroxysm. I was treated by physicians who did everything they could, but they failed to benefit me."

"I had heard a great deal about Weldonia, and thought I would give it a trial. I had not taken Weldonia more than a month before I saw it. It was helping me and by continuing the treatment I am able to get about the house without my wheel chair and now do my housework without any assistance whatever. I had often seen letters recommending Weldonia and wondered if they were true now. I

BIG RAID AT NORTH READING

Dry Agents Seize Distillery and Young Arsenal and Arrest Four

Biggest Seizure in Prohibition Campaign — Other Raids Announced

BOSTON, Jan. 12.—Dry Agent Wilson and his officials, in co-operation with Chief Crowell of North Reading, yesterday made the biggest haul in their anti-wet campaign so far. Not only did they seize stills capable of turning out great quantities of extra high proof moonshine and a large quantity of the stuff itself, but they found, ready at hand, in the building on Chestnut street, where the still was located, a young arsenal which, inferentially, might have been used against dry sleuths in the old Tennessee mountain fashion.

Here is a list of the stuff seized: Two 250-gallon and one 150-gallon stills, in good working order; 33 50-gallon barrels of mash fast becoming "shine"; 40 gallons of the stuff itself, which proved up 180 proof; 1200 pounds of sugar; 350 pounds of rye and wheat; and a miscellaneous number of utensils such as are used in distilling liquor.

Rifles and Shotguns Loaded

Two men were running the distillery, the agents say, when they arrived with Chief Crowell. They were taken by surprise and placed under arrest. A quick search showed the stills, mash, etc., and the arsenal. This consisted of several rifles and shotguns the agents say, fully loaded.

The men in charge gave their names as John and Tom Repetto and their address as Lynnfield. After the federal agents had taken possession of the place they rounded up and placed under arrest, Philadelphia, Nicholas and Joseph Gallino, who say they live in Lawrence. They told the agents that they were not the owners of the place, but that Anthony and John G. Grana, respectively, of 37 Saratoga

MONTHS OF SUFFERING

How a Baltimore Girl Recovered Her Health

Baltimore, Maryland.—"For several months I suffered with severe backache and general weakness. I could not sleep comfortably at night for pain in my back. I found your book at home one day and after reading it began at once to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have had very good results and some of my girl friends are taking it now. You may use this letter to help other girls, as the letters in your book helped me."—ROSE WAIDNER, 3018 Roseland Place, Baltimore, Md.

That is the thought so often expressed in letters recommending Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. These women know what they have suffered, they describe their symptoms and state how they were finally made well. Just plain statements, but they want other women to be helped.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine made from medicinal roots and herbs, and without drugs, to relieve the sickness women so often have, which is indicated by backache, weak feelings, nervousness, and no ambition to get anything done or to go anywhere. It has helped many women. Why not try it?

as Aiken street, the Varnum avenue line to the hospital, end of the Pawtucketville line, Gorham street as far as Davis square, and the Highlands open to Parker street. Other lines were kept open during the night without much trouble, Christian Hill being one of the easiest to handle.

The main line to Reading is open, also the line to Lawrence. Forty men were required to get the Reading connection again. A total of 14 plows were sent out by the railway company, and three large sweepers. The rotary plow was not used, as the snow was too heavy.

The Middlesex street line to North Chelmsford caused some trouble, but cars are moving freely this noon. The Highland route is open almost to the end. The "double rail" does not extend clear through to Reading, but one iron is open and the other closed only in one short section.

The street railway furnished free meals and plenty of coffee for its men last night and today, and all men required to work overtime had their meals paid for. Today the bills were still coming in and the boys were pleased with their fine treatment.

Rail men say the storm hit the local company about as hard as any in the state, and the worst trouble was the large number of burned out wires. Sometimes a short circuit would set a wire on fire that would burn brightly for nearly half an hour. There were almighty bursts of flame all over the city last night and early this morning.

The electric light corporations reported at noon that most of the wires damaged by the storm, would be repaired by nightfall. Centralville, Westford, North Chelmsford and some sections of Gorham, Thoreldale and Middlesex streets were hit by the wire trouble caused by short circuits. Several main cables were burned out in spots, but the repairs were quickly made today, and very few serious complaints have come into the company.

What a "full gale"!

Lowell now knows what a "full gale" is. The early afternoon dispatches from Washington and New York yesterday predicted a severe storm on the way in New England, with shifting gales moving northeast from the Virginia capes. Originally this storm was born down in Texas below the oil well districts. It is known as a "gulf" down there, and the oil men never like 'em. It was rain only there. The storm's intensity was third-grade when it started north from the southland, but Alabama gave it a good push along the northern trail. After sweeping a lot of water across the southern states, it crept north, driven by high gales, and the Atlantic States soon felt the full force of it. Now coming down when the temperature changed above the old Mason and Dixon line.

The local weather watchers got the storm warning early, but they were somewhat puzzled by a late message to the Sun which announced that a "full gale" was coming Lowellward.

This "full gale" stuff sounded very unprohibition-like to local collectors of the goose-bones, squirrel nut experts and watchers of the fur coats worn by farm animals, including the house cat. Someone in the street railway office with nothing particular to do for about two minutes, looked up a 1907 government bureau weather dictionary sent to Lowell way back by a congressman now familiar with all weather signals from above. Here is what we got:

"A full gale, according to the Beaufort scale, is a wind of 60 or 65½ miles an hour and is surpassed in weather interest parlance only by a tornado with hurricane trimmings and wind blowing perhaps 75½ miles an hour."

Where the expert cat his half-mile and three-quarters statistic is not recorded, but last night Lowell home folks on their way back to Umpire street at the twilight hour honestly believe that the '75 miles an hour and up' included the "up" too. It was some night!

Street Railway Hard Hit

most of the lines kept open, although there have been some delays due to wire troubles, heavy snow on the tracks and slight blockades due to falling trees.

The list of damaged wires include direct railway service lines on Lawrence street near the out-of-the-way Parker avenue, Newell and East Merrimack streets, High street, Billerica, Moody street (turnout), Tyngsboro, Andover street, Livingson avenue and Middlesex street, Bowdoin and Gorham streets, Grand and Westford, Lane and Westford, Brookside, Turnout, Grand and Chelmsford streets, Parker, Plain and Crescent streets, Reed and Forest streets, Fair Grounds district, First street, 652 Lakeview avenue, Ramblewood mills, Pine and Stevens, Upper Lakeview avenue, Centralville, Brattle street.

Among the railway lines heavily blockaded by snow, but which were opened this morning after long hard work on the part of the snowplow forces and shovellers was the Duxbury Centre line, the Lakeview line as far from some of the burdons that frequently attend similar storms of the blizzard variety. Manager Lees considers the work of the snow plow men "extras" and the entire force, in fact, as one of the finest exhibitions of energy ever seen locally. At the same time, this storm was somewhat different from other storms that have come under winter weather conditions. The cold, night after night, has chilled the trolley wires so tightly that one of the best service lines in the city was that running to Christian Hill. Trolleys and cars were in operation all night to keep the rails and trolley wires clear, and the regular schedules were maintained till morning, with only slight delays.

The colder weather this morning interfered somewhat with the clearing of tracks in the open country, but the work was kept up all night, and in most cases this morning the rails were fairly clean and traffic continuing on delayed schedules.

Manager Lees of the street railway company figured in about the only accident that the company suffered worth reporting, although numerous cars were put out of commission for the time being, one Christian Hill car nearly getting on fire when a burst of flame shot out from in front of the motorman and gave a bunch of commuters their first New Year's thrill.

Mr. Lees' little flying trip in a spar corner of one of the big snow plows that had started down the line to clear away the drifts, proved exciting when the plow became derailed at the corner of Stevens and Middlesex streets and ran head-on into a tree. No one was injured and Manager Lees even had to unbutton his coat.

The overhead system was tackled by the storm early enough to keep the railway men busy nearly all the afternoon and evening. About 14 old lines were down during the late afternoon, and there were other repairs necessary where the wires were not strongly attached to arms or poles. Lights Out Again street, Belvidere, Christian Hill, and Pawtucketville used to get little or no electricity, summers every New Year's morning, in which they usually found a poem or two referring hopefully to the joys of winter and its turbulent offerings in the storm line. Oldtimers who buckled storms in the days when overhoses were $1.25 and were overhoses, and rubber boots were not missing when used to read something like this:

Quarter-acre city farms owners in the residential districts around Westford

"A frightened squirrel streaks into the gray of his warm, leaf-lined shelter. Night falls fast. The faithful village bells chime out 'Today is over.'

Whistling north winds sting against the smirking cheeks of the home comers. 'Home!' So far away when the cars are missing—away out of the storm."

"But when some of the walking commuters got home, half an hour after one of the harder winds in the history of local 1921-1922 storms, they discovered the darkness had followed them right into the kitchen, and only the little Christmas candle of red and yellow that Little forgot to burn on Christmas eve, or a stray lamp or two, could be found to decorate the dining table when tea arrived.

Tree and Shrubbery

It was one of those night of "proud agony for wonder trees" that the poet writes about in the pages of that book

you ought to read but never read until last night after you finished the Sun and had the furnace all lined up with its 40-count 'em—40 chunks of familiar lines in that book:

lows and on the hills, bending, slightly, crushed 'neath the frozen treac-ery. Scarlet barberry bushes around the house and bungalow (the latest

Grecian construction, stately, best and both included) glistened frosty high, while iridescent bushes, clipped and otherwise, were sparkled under the faint rays of lone street lamps and seemed to say "Thou shalt not kill."

Considerable damage has been reported from owners of trees, valuable shrubbery and decorative plants, nevertheless.

The crystal world was hushed and still, except where an occasional snow

now pushed its way along; and some excited motorman agitated by the blowing out of a fuse, gave vent to his real feelings by hitting the old controller a couple of hairy slaps just as if the brass clincher had anything to do with the condition of the tracks ahead or the overheads.

The steam railroads had no difficulty beating the storm and gale to the finish line. Some of the northern trains were late, but there, was no letup in freight traffic on the main lines, and although the yards are choked up with snow this morning, the necessary tracks for traffic and freight shifting transfer purposes are open.

The telephone lines were open all night in most sections, very few serious trouble being reported during the evening.

KING NOT COMING IN SEARCH OF "QUEEN"

SOPHIA, Jan. 12.—(By the Associated Press)—Young King Boris of Bulgaria said he had no intention of marrying an American girl if he should visit the United States with Premier Stamboullsky next spring, as he now hopes to do. The king, taunted when the idea was suggested to him that he might find an American queen.

That is an extremely interesting and novel idea, he said, "but I am afraid it isn't true. Any way, I'm too busy with the reconstruction of the country and other vital problems to give any time to matrimonial projects."

The king said he had not yet decided definitely whether he will be able to visit the United States in the spring.

ARCHBISHOP METAXAKIS

Found Guilty of Attempting to Bring Schism in Church, Deprived of Rank

ATHENS, Jan. 12 (by the Associated Press)—An ecclesiastical court presided over by the Metropolitan of Athens today found Most Rev. Meletios Metaxakis, recently elected patriarch of Constantinople, guilty of attempting to bring about a schism in the church. It ordered that he be deprived of his every rank and secluded as a monk in the monastery at Zante. Archbishop Metaxakis was not present at the trial.

Archbishop Metaxakis left New York Dec. 30 for Constantinople. He was elected patriarch of the Greek Orthodox church in Constantinople on Dec. 8 by an overwhelming majority, after which relations were broken off between the Constantinople patriarchate and the Athens government. In the debate preceding his election the Athens government was sharply criticized for alleged failure in its duty towards the undeemed Greeks.

Seven members of the Constantinople synod resigned, protesting the illegality of the election, and the Greek church synod at Athens adopted a resolution condemning Archbishop Metaxakis for "attempting to provoke an ecclesiastical separation, or schism, among the Greeks in America."

THE START AT CITY HALL

So far as the new city government has gone, it certainly has not shown an inclination to safeguard the taxpayers. Before election the cry was for economy and a lower tax rate. But in several of the things done by the new government there is displayed a spirit of extravagance which, if followed, will push the tax rate very much higher than it is at present. Yet in this respect, perhaps, there is even a closer relation between promise and performance than can be found between the promise to close the saloons in 48 hours and the fact that they are still reported to be doing business at the old stands, with the exception of one in which the owner of the building refused to renew the lease, and not from any interference by the police.

To begin with, the public service board has appointed a committee of three men to make an inventory of two or three municipal departments, for which they are to receive the sum of eight per day without any time limit. It is hardly to be expected that they will hurry through a job that pays so liberally for work that could be done more intelligently by a few of the clerks who find it difficult to keep busy.

Then a man has been made superintendent of ash collection at eight dollars per day, whereas Thomas H. Garvey, superintendent of the health department yard, supervised the collection of ashes, swill and waste paper in addition to his various other duties, for $39.50 per week.

Does not this indicate an upper trend in salaries at city hall, at a time when thousands are vainly waiting for an opportunity to earn day's pay on the streets or sewers? But the unemployed are to be aided and the first step is to engage a registrar at a salary of $1600 per annum. He will require a stenographer and a general clerk, which will put the expense up to about $5,000, a sum that looks big to people who are out of work and in want. This matter of registration will surely be well looked after inasmuch as already Lawyer P. J. Reynolds conducts the registration of labor at city hall for the civil service jobs and receives $300 per annum for a few hours per week. His office is necessary, however, under the civil service laws.

In addition to the other registration bureaus, the local post of the American Legion conducts a registration bureau at city hall with Adj't. Rutledge in charge for at least two hours daily. The adjutant looks out for the service men only and receives no compensation for his services. Of course it is expected that the service men are amply repaid for such work by the realization that they are helping the country by helping its defenders. Well, so they are; but in view of the triple registration arrangement at city hall, the service men must feel that they have been ignored. Still there may be work enough for all the registrars and it is to be hoped that they will totally or severally succeed in finding jobs for most of those who are idle.

It is true, of course, that Cornelius P. Cronin was registrar of labor during the war and that he is conversant with the methods then employed, an experience which should assist him in handling the present situation as the head of the employment bureau. It is necessary to spend money in aiding the unemployed; but there should be no extravagance in overhead expenses. Neither should there be any needless men employed at eight dollars a day while hundreds of men with large families crowded up to the bread line, are vainly looking for an opportunity to earn an honest dollar at anything they can get.

The city government is expected to make a reasonable effort within its resources to aid the unemployed; but this will best be done by the exercise of strict economy in the departments and especially in keeping overhead expenses as low as possible.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The annual report of the chamber of commerce shows that the organization has had a very prosperous year and that its record of activity in building up a better Lowell is entirely praiseworthy.

The membership at the close of the year is greater than at the close of the campaign of 1920 which, considering the business depression, is very creditable.

During the year the industrial committee succeeded in bringing five new industries to Lowell; and in referring to their location here, Secretary Wells puts the estimate too low when he says they will employ 500 hands. We understand that they employ more than that number at present and the C. V. Watson Shoe company alone will probably employ more than that number before the close of the present year. The other companies will also grow to greater proportions, so that their location here will eventually mean much for Lowell.

In adding the business of Lowell merchants, the chamber was equally unsuccessful. Its efforts to keep down the tax rate by reducing the budget and eliminating extravagance in street construction met with vigorous opposition; but its policies were, nevertheless, for the benefit of all the people. During the year several other industries would probably have settled here but for the high tax rate, which not only increases rentals but stands as a handicap to the city's industrial growth.

Mr. Pepper will be a candidate for the senatorship next November, as he has the backing of Sprout and the republican machine leaders in Pennsylvania.

Senator Pepper has been known as an authority on constitutional and corporation law and is the author of two standard legal digests. He was an opponent of the League of Nations. In public addresses and articles written while the allies were in session at Versailles, Mr. Pepper fought unremittingly against the League.

The new senator is in many respects one of the "old line" representatives of the state where certain great trusts rule in prosperous style. He has been identified with many big corporation cases in recent years, notably the fight over $67,000,000 worth of stock on the Du Pont de Nemours corporation. He "knows the corporation ropes," has been identified with many interests classed as "strictly Pennsylvania" and evidently the Pennsylvania G. O. P. clans can safely trust him in his new role in Washington.

A PITIFUL CASE

Nothing brings cases of real distress so forcibly to public attention as when a man deliberately does something unlawful for the purpose of getting arrested and being sent to prison.

That is what happened in Paterson, N. J., the other day when a man, penniless, hungry and cold, smashed a window and admitted that he did so in order to be sent to prison, as he had no money, no work, and no prospect of finding any means of subsistence at least until the spring.

There is little doubt that men are to be found in dire distress in every city in the country at the present time. Few of them, however, are foolish enough to commit a crime for the purpose of getting arrested. They realize that in every city there is a department which stands ready to receive any bona fide case of distress. It is well that persons in destitute circumstances should understand this, and that they should apply at the proper place at city hall rather than do anything desperate. The city pays out large sums annually for the purpose of aleting real distress. No taxpayer in the city ever complains of the amount spent by the charity department, provided there is no willful waste or unnecessary extravagance. The poor we have always with us and every city must do its share in relieving distress within its limits.

TO AID EUROPE

It now appears that the plan of relief proposed by the economic conference to meet at Genoa in March is to establish an international finance corporation with a capital of $10,000,000. Under the present arrangements its headquarters would be in London with a board of directors named by affiliated companies in each of the interested countries. It is also intended that these countries, including the United States if possible, would organize other corporations for promotion only, with a combined capital of $100,000,000 for the purpose of conducting credit transactions and facilitating private enterprises in countries now hampered by lack of credit and diseconomized finance.

This plan undoubtedly would help many of the European countries to start up industries which would otherwise remain inactive for lack of the necessary credit or capital. It would at least inspire confidence and promote a sort of business enthusiasm that would have a wholesome effect in hastening the business recovery of the war-torn nations.

FEWER AUTOS

Passenger autos and trucks produced in United States during 1921 totaled 1,680,000.

The 1920 output was 2,110,000 vehicles.

The drop in actual number of cars last year was 25 per cent.

Figuring it in money or combined wholesale prices, the drop was 15 per cent.

That 15 per cent figure will be most widely quoted and mourned over. The price tag still persists in many heads, measuring business in terms of shrinking dollars, instead of actual physical volume, tons, bushels, etc.

THE MINIMUM WAGE

What is the minimum wage a girl requires to live on decently? Twelve dollars a week, said the Massachusetts Minimum Wage Commission.

Three Boston women, social workers, checked up. Each reports she broke down trying to live on $12 a week.

There is no better citizen than the employer who in deflating wages, keeps in mind that the woman wage-earner has a more difficult time than a man, and that she must be given a safe margin.

"Minimum" is the danger-point. And now the millwomen must take a civil service examination and also prove that they are physically fit. This, however, does not imply that they will have to take boxing lessons or practice the use of the chin.

The people will welcome ten-cent milk from whatever source it comes. That price should satisfy everybody except perhaps the farmers.

We have no doubt that City Engineer Keaney will make good on his job, but he cannot serve two masters.

Peter and Pan

I met Barrie, said an editor, "at a dinner party in Boston. What a big head he got, to be sure. Sir James I said nervously, toying with the stem of my wine glass, I suppose, Sir James that some of your plays do better than others? They are all sweet, I imagine." Barrie turned his big head on his little child neck toward me. His saucier-like eyes twinkled. "Yes" and I don't know which of them it was!"

The Old Miner

He was a struggling Scottish farmhand, who had come to town with the hand of a widow who possessed in her own right the sum of 5000 pounds.

Shortly before the wedding, a friend went to congratulate him. "It's a fine thing for ye, this weddin'," Sandy, he said. "But what's the use? I'm a pauper." "No big. Why it's worth 5000 pounds, ye isn't it?" "No," sighed Sandy, "less than that. Ye see, it will cost me 17 an' 6 pence for a marriage license!"

Daddy Was Exasperated

Father was trying to get his evening paper to write away the time his mother returned from shopping. He was being pestered all the time by persistent questioning of his young son, who asked for the most impossible information about the most impossible things. Father was becoming irritated. Then, at the worst point of parental irritation the boy said, "Daddy, tell me, what is a she-dragon?" The man replied, in sheer exasperation: "Now, look here, Tommy, one more word about your mother and off you go to bed!"

Sunshine Avenue

Leave your way or find your way, or how you twist or turn. Come back to Sunshine avenue, where all the cables burn. The earth is the bright heart that for all travelers gleams. Above the path of melody in holy lands of dream.

On every step the children dance, and sing in every lane; And even door of every house is open, sun or rain.

And welcome to those who stray, from shadow and from tears. To find the Sunshine avenue that brightens half our years.

Give me your cat on Grumble Hill and come to this sweet place; For through the world's song and joy with me and with new runs up the hill and down the lane love's Sunshine avenue.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

"It seems to me," quoted Protection Officer Joseph L. Cronin, as he looked over the crowd in the first district court room one morning recently, "that this court room acts as a pretty good barometer of the employment situation."

Standing a few paces from his office, which adjoins the room in question, Mr. Cronin pointed out that every seat in sight was occupied and that a number were standing.

Not being a "regular" in the court room, I inquired just what Mr. Cronin meant by the statement. The fact that the court room was crowded was no special significance to me, other than the fact that business must be pretty good.

"It isn't the fact that business in court is good that draws the crowd as much as it is the fact that the men have no other place to go," said Mr. Cronin.

"Day after day this court room is crowded with people, and it is a fact the same faces appear pretty frequently," he continued. He added, "Of course there is a number who come because they are interested in some particular case or cases, but many of them come because they have nothing to do. I don't think many of them are students of law; at least, it doesn't appear to be the case."

"I can remember a time during the war when there would hardly be a person in this room who wasn't in some way or another connected with one of the cases. But just look at it now. This morning is not an exceptional one, either, the conditions are the same nearly every day."

At one time hotel used to be considered as good barometers of business. A crowded hotel meant many traveling men on the road, much good business and a general rush of affairs. When the hotel business was slack it generally meant business was on the decline.

Of late hotels are not considered the barometers they used to be because the springing up of many clubs who cater to traveling men.

Naturally conditions in court are better attended in the cold months than in the warm ones, but it was pointed out that condition of crowded court room existed when the weather was mild and inviting patent to the great out-of-doors. In any case the ox element of police court cases has its attractions, but that does not account for the steady regular attendance.

At the third annual meeting of the Boston branch of Dickens' Fellowship held in the Town room of the Twenty-third Century Club, Boston, Monday evening, I am informed, Judge John Conroy, of this city, read a very interesting paper on "Some of the courts and some of the lawyers in Dickens' books."

The Fellowship will have its annual dinner on Monday evening, Feb. 6.

J. G. Walker of this city, a student in Technology in the class of 1923, is included in the cast that is rehearsing the annual Tech show which will soon be given.

The members of the Lowell Guild met yesterday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Albert W. Thompson, Fairmount street, for its annual meeting. Mrs. W. L. Robertson; vice-president, Mrs. Bertha M. Abbott and Mrs. E. D. Holden; assistant treasurer, Mrs. A. J. Starkland; secretary, Mrs. F. L. Parchett; executive committee, Mrs. E. D. Holden, Mrs. E. S. Hyland, Mrs. A. J. Starkland, Mrs. G. L. Stover, Mrs. Joshua Butler and the officers ex-officio.

Dr. Mary Lakeman of the state board of health spoke on "The part the district nursing associations can take in the new health program."

President's Report

The report of the president, Mrs. W. L. Robertson, which covered the activities of the guild for the year 1922, was as follows:

The Lowell guild is now completing its 12th year as a District Nursing association.

The year's work was started with a new superintendent and staff of seven nurses, but owing to illness, Mrs. Mary Sheppard, gave a fashion show and $95.82 was added to the treasury. The Paint and Powder club gave a play, the proceeds to be given to the guild, amounting to $700. Guild baby day in June under the direction of Mrs. J. Gilbert Hill netted $2332.13. This, with the receipts from paying patients and the money paid by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. for visits made upon its sick policy holders, enables us to close our year free from debt, and with the hope that the money has been used wisely and for the betterment of the city.

In this work we have co-operated and had the able assistance of the following agencies:

The Social Service League, board of health, International Institute, interdenominational council, Red Cross, Y.W.C.A., Florence Crittenton Rescue League and police women.

Baby Has Grown

incorporated as a recognized body in 1911, the guild has grown to be one of the great, if not the greatest, factor in baby hygiene work in the city, and it is through its work that hundreds of babies have started on the road to strong, healthy lives, through instruction given the mothers by competent nurses. In doing this work the infant mortality rate of the city has been lowered.

Three baby clinics have been held each week throughout the year and with a fourth during the summer months. It is in this work we show our greatest increase, and it is due to the faithful service of our clinic physicians

PIMPY? WELL, DON'T BE

People Notice It—Drive Them Off With Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer, if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowel and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them?

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating. No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the imminently effective result. Take one nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c and 30c—Adv.

"The Lane That Had No Turning" Exposes Star System

THEODORE KOSLOFF

AGNES AYRES

BY JAMES W. DEAN

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—The movie star system is a complex arrangement. The name of the star is frequently used as the box office attraction while the work of another player is the true screen attraction.

An example of this frequent situation is "The Lane That Had No Turning," the version of Sir Gilbert Parker's novel.

It is the first swarthy vehicle of Agnes Ayres, but she isn't the star of it. Theodore Kosloff, who was a dancer and therefore an adept in pantomime, completely overshadows the star, who enhances the picture only by her personal charm.

And that brings to mind "Forbidden Fruit," filmed more than a year ago. Miss Ayres was truly the star of that but was not billed as such.

"The Lane That Had No Turning" also bears out the assertion made frequently in these columns that the motion picture is not a form of literature.

The story has been screened in faithful adherence to the novel version. However, incidents of the book affected a story of characters, those of a man who became wizened mentally and spiritually when his body became deformed and a woman who sacrificed "all except honor" for that man.

This study in character analysis is lost on the screen. Action substitutes for character. The film becomes melodrama.

If in the opening chapters of a book it is told that a man is descended from a family suffering with spinal disease and learns that the man meets with an accident to his back, one anticipates the malformation that ensues in later chapters. The malformation develops along with the action of the plot, the time element being taken into account.

This condition is too subtle to be effectively transposed to a motion picture whose action is concentrated in an hour. One is normal in the first minute and a few moments later sees him hideously deformed in a manner which takes nature months to accomplish.

The same obstacle lies in the development of the change in character.

The warping of a mind is either a spontaneous affair, the snapping-off of an electrode current, or a gradual process resulting from the weight of an obsession of a worry either real or fancied.

The illusion of this latter change is lost in a film which occupies the attention an hour or less.

Property—in order that the vicious tendency to increase these values might be checked.

The Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad, which runs through Iowa, pays a "remarkably high dividend. This in itself is another influence that is making times hard for the people of the state.

"The crest of the present crisis is passed.

"Some farmers are broke. They will have to start all over again.

"Where a man owns his farm and is not too heavily in debt, he is not hard up. He may be poor, but he can go on.

"He must go on—or his cattle will die and his property be wasted.

"The farmer who goes in for diversified farming—dairying—is best off.

"But I am glad that I lived most of my days in the old time."

Mr. Quirk gave up his membership on the federal farm loan board to write of Iowa. The first novel of a trilogy will be published soon. It is called "Vandermark's Folly."

"Now the man who buys a farm is crushed under debt. Values are high.

He is charged $300 an acre—and usually owes $200.

"This condition of high values and the necessity of the poorer farmer to root his land have created the hard times.

"Until the agricultural population is able to get some surplus wealth to buy with—it will be hard straits."

How to get this surplus?

Mr. Quirk shrugged his shoulders.

Take Land Values

"Anyone seeking to ameliorate the condition of the people both on the farm and in the city," he said thoughtfully, "should turn his attention to the shifting of taxes from things that we eat and wear to land values—which are essentially common to all."

The funeral will be held Saturday morning with a requiem mass at St. William's church, Dorchester ave.

and Belford street, and will be private. Interment will be in Holyrood cemetery.

Mr. Murray's fame was nation wide. He enjoyed an unusual acquaintance with sporting men from all parts of the country, and for upwards of 20 years conducted a billiard and pool parlor uptown, where the sporting fraternity gathered, and where many problems were settled and baseball talk indulged in.

News of his death will be a severe shock to thousands of men prominent in the sporting world, for he was known as a "good fellow" and he never failed to live up to that reputation.

Sport fans generally everywhere admired the man for his kindly ways.

PAINFUL NEURITIS FOLLOWS INFLUENZA

Many people who in the last few years have suffered an attack of influenza have never recovered the full vigor of health that they enjoyed before. Influenza leaves the system debilitated and peculiarly susceptible to diseases that are caused by or depend upon thin blood. To correct these diseases when they appear, and to strengthen the system so that it will resist them it is necessary to build up the blood.

"Last January," says Mrs. Ellen McLean of No. 14 Barnes street, Ashmont, Boston, Mass., "I had an attack of influenza and it left me in a very run-down condition. My strength was gone and I had no appetite. I suffered from neuralgic pains in my shoulders which were worse at night and I got very little sleep. In the morning it would be so weak that I could not lift up my hand to do my hair. I was just able to drag myself around the house. When I was a girl I lived in Prince Edward Island and Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were our family remedy. I had used them for asthma and they built me up so I thought I would try them to see if I could get rid of the after-effects of the influenza. While I was on the second box I commenced to get my strength back. Soon the dull, languid feeling was gone. In three weeks I had a good appetite and my strength had returned so that I could do my housework without getting tired out."

"In a short time the neuritis pains were gone entirely. I have great faith in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for they gave me more strength and ambition than I have had in a long time. I have recommended them to others and shall continue to do so."

WHIP-POOR-WILL'S CALL IS SAID TO BE A SURE SIGN OF FAIR WEATHER.

the 20 divisions were notified of the theft. A description of the car and its registration number was sent out with the notification and, as each station house received it, it was relayed to patrolmen on street duty as they were ringing in their duty calls.

An hour later a patrolman attached to Division 9 was plodding his beat on Humboldt ave., Roxbury, during the height of the storm, when that thoroughfare was a sea of slush, when he passed a machine parked at the curbing. The car tallied with the description and registration number that he had received a few minutes before. He notified his commanding officer of the find and the automobile was later returned to the Curtis garage.

No one was arrested in connection with the theft and it is believed the thief abandoned the machine.

Mal Murray was 57 years old. He was born in South Boston, Jan. 1, 1864. He was a widower, and is survived by three sons, Edward, Leo and Vincent, and two daughters, Helen and Marie, all of whom were at the bedside when their father passed away.

His first ball playing was in his home district, and he became conspicuous on the baseball diamond in '81, when he captained the champion amateur club of South Boston. His first professional appearance was in the fall of '83, when Manager Arthur Irwin of the Philadelphia secured for him a position as catcher of the Reading (Penn.) club, although his regular place had been that of shortstop.

In '84 he was substitute catcher for the Providence champions. The next season he went to the Indianapolis club. That league lasted four weeks. He then was temporarily with the Haverhill and Rochester, N. Y., clubs, and later was induced to join the Minneapolis club of the Western league, where he did such good work that he was purchased by Washington.

While in the south the following spring he contracted malaria, and when the season opened he did little or no playing. He was eventually released, and for a while after he was with a London, Ont., team. That was practically his last season professionally.

He had wide experience as an umpire and gave the utmost satisfaction. He had an excellent presence on the field, being tall and alert, and clubs were always unanimous in their opinion that they were fortunate in being able to command his services as umpire. He umpired much of the time in the National league, and for years acted as umpire for the Harvard games.

BOXING

While entries for tonight's big amateur boxing tournament at the Crescent are pouring in enough are already registered, according to Cecil P. Dodge, who is arranging the bouts to provide for at least 60 rounds of boxing.

Among those who have sent in registration blanks are several from out-of-town and indications point to one of the biggest amateur events ever held in this section.

The list up to last night was as follows:

108-pound class, entries closed Tuesday night—Henry Duffy, William MacKenzie, Arthur Alton, Jack Perry, Eddie John McCarthy, Rickey Carroll, Choppy Carr, Peter Moscatel, Dick Soulier.

115-pound class, entries closed Tuesday night—Matt Nurey, Freddie Keeler, John McCarthy, Tommy Hogan, Jimmie Clinton, Peter Richard.

125-pound class, entries still open—Bobby Smith, Fred Koefo, Thomas Carney, William McGowan, Martin McCoy, Billy Marsac.

Referee Billy Clinton, who gave general satisfaction at the last tournament, will handle all the bouts with Johnnie McBride, William Conlon, Alphonse Mello, Larry Hendricks, Thomas McCarthy, Donald Oatman.

Word from Lawrence states that Frank Burns is training diligently for his scheduled bout with Thimney today. He is working out in one of the Lawrence gymnasiums and reports that he is rapidly rounding into form.

Glenn Killinger, athletic star at Penn State, has signed his contract with the New York Americans.

It is announced that Killinger will be a candidate for third base. Frank Baker cannot go on playing forever; sooner or later a successor must be found for him.

White Killinger played almost every position on the Penn State club, he has always been partial to third base. He is to be given his opportunity to show at that position.

The fact that Killinger is to make his debut at third, recalls the number of collegians who have made good in trying to show at that position.

Arthur Devlin, one of the greatest third basemen of all time, came to the Giants from Georgetown. It didn't take him long to win a berth as a big leaguer. In National League circles, when discussing third basemen, comparisons are always drawn with Devlin.

Frankie Frisch, who has already proved his greatness, and will go down into the records as one of the greatest of all third basemen, came to the Giants direct from Fordham college. He made good as soon as he was placed in the regular lineup.

Larry Gardner, who is still playing a brilliant game at third base for Cleveland despite his many years of service, got his early training at the difficult corner at the University of Vermont.

Gardner came to the Red Sox. He was sent to the New England league for a bit of seasoning. He returned after a year of play in the organization ready to deliver in the majors.

The late Eddie Grant, one of the heroes of the world war, and who was one of the best third basemen in the National league for years, prepared at Harvard.

The collegians seem to have a faculty of turning out a lot of mighty good fielders.

George Sisler, one of the greatest first basemen of all time, got his early training at University of Michigan. Sisler also starred as a pitcher while at that institution. He made good as a pitcher in the American league, but was transferred to first base because it was believed he would be of more value to his team by getting into the game every day.

Eddie Collins, who for 12 years has shown the way to the second basemen of both major leagues, learned the rudiments of the game at Columbia. Connie Mack, after much experimenting, selected second base was Eddie's forte. Then there was Jack Barry, who for years starred at shortstop and later at second base in the American league.

Joe Dugan came from Holy Cross to the majors and made good from the very start. Jack Barry batted from the same college.

Will Killinger live up to the mark set by other famous collegians?

SPORTING NOTES

The latest plans for the new Penn stadium at Philadelphia call for a seating capacity of 30,000 people. However, the average is 15,000. It is believed that 50,000 seats will be sufficient. It is the intention to immediately erect that number.

Two men selected by Walter Camp for his American eleven, and chosen further, honored by being elected captain, "Red" Roberti, who was picked as one of the ends, will captain Central College in 1922, while Frank Cornell, who will lead Cornell.

It is said that Ohio State will be the first eastern team to entertain California in this section. When State agreed to the coast trip in 1920, it is said the understanding was that California would play a return game on the football stadium at State's expense. It will be completed in time for play next year.

Dave Danforth was weak in holding on the bases when in the minors. It is said he has developed a great speed since leaving Chicago, and is a sure bet to make a run on first, with a line for Dave, unless the Indians disagree with him on the legality of the motion.

TEXTILE BASKETBALL TEAM KEEPS BUSY

The Textile basketball team is putting in some hard work of practice in anticipation of its game with Providence college, which will be played in the local gymnasium tomorrow.

The team is pretty confident of victory after defeating the fast Pittsburgh Normal boys and showed much improvement during the practice sessions this week. The team will be somewhat handicapped by the loss of Schneider, one of the star forwards, who will be out of the game for a while.

May Break Young's Record of 23 Years in Game

BY BILLY EVANS

Cy Young had pitched 23 years when he retired from the major leagues.

Young's career is a record for service as a ball player. It has never been seriously threatened.

A contender for the honors held by Young looms up in the person of Pitcher Jack Quinn of the Boston Red Sox.

Quinn, it will be remembered, figured in the recent deal between New York and Boston, which sent him to the Red Sox and brought Pitchers Jones and Bush, as well as Shortstop Scott to New York.

When Quinn reports to the Red Sox next spring he will be starting on his 20th year for professional baseball. That would make him appear old in the point of years, yet he is only 36 years of age.

Quinn made his professional debut with Connellsville of the Pennsylvania State league in 1903. He remained with that team through the seasons of 1904 to 1908.

The following year he was with Macon in the South Atlantic league. In 1909 he was with Richmond in the Virginia league.

That fall through the medium of the draft he was secured by the New York American League club.

After a brief stay with the Americans, Quinn met with varying success. He managed to stay in the big show until the fall of 1912, when he was sent to the Rochester club of the International league.

It is good showing in 1913 with Rochester, when he won 19 victories, caused him to be grabbed off by the Toledo league in a quest for players. He labored for two years at Baltimore in the outlaw organization.

When the peace pact was put over he was sent to Vernon, in the Pacific coast league. He stayed there for the seasons of 1916, 1917, and part of 1918. When the coast league closed because of the war, Quinn finished the season with the Chicago White Sox.

The New York American league club

claimed the right to his services under the peace pact. The national league awarded him to the Yankees.

He reported to the New York club in 1919 and has been with the Yankees ever since. Next year he will wear a Red Sox uniform.

Quinn has an excellent chance to better the record of Cy Young. He has still enough stuff left to get by in the long few couple of years, and ought to be able to fool them in the minors for that length of time.

Jack Quinn has an excellent curve ball, despite the fact that he has never made much of it. His curve ball is good enough to fool a lot of them.

In the effort to break the record held by Young, the Yankee pitcher is being given tussle by Babe Adams of Pittsburgh.

Adams started at Parsons in the Mississippi Valley league just a year later than Quinn, and will be starting his 14th year in the spring when he reports to the Pirates.

Other pitchers who have even long service are Red Adams, with 15 years to his credit, and Eddie Plank with 15 years to his credit.

It is good showing in 1913 with Rochester, when he won 19 victories, caused him to be grabbed off by the Toledo league in a quest for players. He labored for two years at Baltimore in the outlaw organization.

When the peace pact was put over he was sent to Vernon, in the Pacific coast league. He stayed there for the seasons of 1916, 1917, and part of 1918. When the coast league closed because of the war, Quinn finished the season with the Chicago White Sox.

The New York American league club

claimed the right to his services under the peace pact. The national league awarded him to the Yankees.

He reported to the New York club in 1919 and has been with the Yankees ever since. Next year he will wear a Red Sox uniform.

Quinn has an excellent chance to better the record of Cy Young. He has still enough stuff left to get by in the long few couple of years, and ought to be able to fool them in the minors for that length of time.

Jack Quinn has an excellent curve ball, despite the fact that he has never made much of it. His curve ball is good enough to fool a lot of them.

PICKPOCKETS SENTENCED

Boston and Lawrence, "Dips" Get House of Correction Sentences

Defendants Attempted to Pick Boston Man's Pockets, at Middlesex Street Station

Mysterious thefts of pocketbooks from baskets and satchels of local shoppers who have been committed in the central part of the city in broad daylight during the past few weeks have been solved by the police with the apprehension of a gang of boys ranging in ages between 10 and 17 years, who, according to the inspectors of the department, have admitted their guilt. Receiving complaint from five women who told how their pocketbooks were picked out of their baskets or satchels while standing in Merrimack square talking to friends or while waiting for a car, during the afternoon hours within the last two weeks, the police immediately started an investigation. Through two of the complainants Patrolman Drewett learned that the thefts alleged had been committed by young boys. One of the women told the police her purse, which had been taken from a shopping basket which she carried on her arm, contained $20, while one other complainant said she had $50 in her pocketbook and other losses reported varied from $1 to $5. During the past ten days Patrolman Drewett has been busily engaged questioning boys under suspicion and finally yesterday afternoon picked up six boys who after a sevora grilling by Capt. Atkinson and other inspectors confessed to having committed the thefts.

According to the police the boys were united in their thieving activities. They told the officers that they had lost most of the money, however, in piggy banks. They further revealed to the police a place where they said they had thrown the pocketbooks and purses after emptying them of their contents.

The heavy snowfall late yesterday hindered the work of the inspectors who had started a search for them. Today the authorities are looking for several more boys believed to have been accomplices of the alleged thieves against whom court procedure has been instituted.

Irish Prisoners Are Released

was issued by Winston Churchill, secretary for the colonies, read:

"The king has been pleased, at the moment when the provisional Irish government is due to take office, to grant general amnesty with respect to all offenses committed in Ireland from political motives prior to the operation of the truce, July 11 last."

"The release of the prisoners to which this amnesty applies, will begin forthwith."

"It is the king's confident hope that this act of oblivion will aid in powerfully establishing relations of friendship and good will between the peoples of Great Britain and Ireland."

Figures given out in Dublin last night, in anticipation of the amnesty proclamation, showed that 1910 persons, who probably would come under classification as political prisoners, were still in confinement. The number included 26 persons charged with murder, 121 with attempted murder, 473 with possessing arms, and 225 with crimes of violence, the others being held on minor charges. A few Simeon prisoners are under sentence of death, these according to recent Belfast advices including the 18 men in jail there whose execution has been set for the latter part of January.

The men under confinement in the Irish internment camps were released in December.

Wireless Reports Transport Crook Riding Easily Under Her Own Steam

Has 150 Seamen, 13 Officers, 940 Men and Bodies of Many Soldiers Aboard

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—A wireless message received by the Army Transport Service in Brooklyn, today, said the United States transport Crook, which reported by radio yesterday that she had sprung a leak, was riding easily under her own steam through a moderate southwest gale.

Despatches from the captain yesterday indicated that the seamen had opened had been calked and cemented, but anxiety over the ship was not wholly abated today. Three ships were sent out by the war department to stand by the vessel which yesterday afternoon was reported to be about 400 miles from New York and south of Halifax.

When she sailed from Europe, the Crook had a full cargo on board and carried, in addition to her crew of 150 seamen, 13 officers and 940 men from the army of occupation in Germany. In her hold there were many bodies of American soldiers who fell on European battlefields.

Heavy cross seas with a strong west wind cut down the Crook's speed to nine knots last night, and this morning she reported riding easily at three knots an hour. The relief steamer St. Mihel too, was slowed down by the storm, and marine observers here said they could not estimate when the vessels would meet.

Because of the reduced speed, they did not expect the Crook to arrive here before Saturday.

of the treaty. Meanwhile Arthur Griffith, the new president, has started the machinery of his provisional government, one of his first acts being to summon the South Ireland parliament for a meeting on Saturday for the purpose of formally passing upon the treaty. This formal ratification is specifically provided for in the pact.

Execution of Public Castle.

Mr. de Valera has stated that he will ignore the meeting on Saturday and it is believed his followers will do likewise. The supporters of Mr. Griffith believe that this assures unanimous approval of the treaty by the remaining members, with the added support of the former members for Dublin university.

The British authorities have begun their evacuation of Dublin castle, and announcement of the release of the Irish political prisoners is expected at any time. In addition, preparations for the withdrawal of the British military forces are understood to be going forward.

AN EXCELLENT PROGRAM DEBATE IN HIGH SCHOOL

Splendid Attraction Under Auspices of The Lowell Teachers' Organization

An unusually fine program of 'cello and piano selections was given at St. Anne's parish house yesterday afternoon, by Georges and Irene Longly-Miquelle. The entertainment was under the auspices of the Lowell Teachers' organization, Miss Caroline A. Downey, president, and in spite of the raging storm, a number of the organization's members were present and enjoyed the excellent music.

The Teachers' organization has been hampered greatly during the winter by storms, which seem to come almost by prearrangement on the dates set for their entertainments. This was particularly unfortunate, as yesterday was a day of a splendid attraction had been secured.

Mr. and Mrs. Miquelle's program was in four parts, as follows: 1. Sonata in G major... Sammartini (1700-1770) 2. Allegro-Grave-Andante. 2. Cello Solos. (a) Allegro Spirituoso, Schubert (b) Andante, Jean Hurni (c) Grandioso... Monti 3. Piano solos. (a) Capriccio... Scarlatti (b) Romance in F sharp Schumann 4. Sonata in A minor, opus 36. Grieg Andante-Allegro agitato.

STORM NOW CENTRAL OVER MAINE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—The winter storm which yesterday swept the northeastern section of the United States in an icy blanket and buffeted the Atlantic coast with gales ranging in velocity up to 76 miles an hour, today was central over southeastern Maine, according to weather bureau reports.

Cold wave warnings were ordered for northern New England and northeastern New York with the prediction of frost tonight as far south as central Florida.

Duty Stinks Man Drowns

PROVINCETOWN, Jan. 12.—The severest storm of the winter swept Cape Cod yesterday, accompanied with a driving rain and thick weather, causing the death of one man by drowning and much damage along the waterfront.

Several of the Nantucket fishing boats and a number of the smaller gasoline dories left the harbor early yesterday morning. The southerner, for which hurricane signals were hoisted at 9 a. m. came up so quickly a majority of the boats were only half way back when the storm was at its height.

The Nantucket boats, being much larger than the dories, came through none the worse for their hard experience, although the steep, jagged, Enos, after making the harbor safely, failed to make her mooring and grounded on the beach. Another, the Arthur and Matthew, broke from her mooring and piled up on the beach.

The tide was ebbing, anchors were put out and they were floated at high tide after the storm had abated.

The gasoline dories suffered much worse trying to make port. John Costa and his partner were washed out, coming up at Broadwood End. The dory sank immediately, the gasoline, which was beneath the canvas cover, down with it. His partner, who was at the wheel, was picked up by John Costa, who was just behind them in his dory. Costa grabbed his man by the hair, and although being nearly pitched overboard himself by the heavy seas, beat him about with one end of his engine plunger and finally got him aboard. The plunger was so hot it burned a large hole through Costa's rubber boot.

Exposure Causes Death

SPRINGFIELD, Jan. 12.—A heavy fall of snow, accompanied by a high wind, continued through the day, covering Springfield and vicinity with 10-inch coating of snow at 10 o'clock in the morning and the storm was still raging.

An unidentified man, about 65 years old, was found dead near Bay street by a truck driver late yesterday afternoon. He was apparently a victim of the storm. When found he had been dead but a short time. There were no marks of violence on his body and medical examiner, Dr. Broderick J. Jones, who viewed the body, said that death was undoubtedly due to exposure.

Two H. H. Workmen Killed

FRAMINGHAM, Jan. 12.—Two rail-road section workers, Alvin McReynolds, 25, and John Bartlett, 27, were fatally injured late yesterday when they were struck by an express train on the Boston & Albany line while at work operating switches two miles west of here. They died soon after having been taken to the Framingham hospital.

The driving rainstorm, together with the steam from a locomotive, is said to have hidden the approach of the locomotive.

Hurricane Signals Hoisted

PORTLAND, Me., Jan. 12.—Hurricane signals were hoisted by the weather bureau for the second time in history yesterday, when the southern storm struck Portland and vicinity. Wind index of about 140, and a 10-inch coating of snow at 10 o'clock in the morning and the storm was still raging.

An unidentified man, about 65 years old, was found dead near Bay street by a truck driver late yesterday afternoon. He was apparently a victim of the storm. When found he had been dead but a short time. There were no marks of violence on his body and medical examiner, Dr. Broderick J. Jones, who viewed the body, said that death was undoubtedly due to exposure.

Post Graduate Boys Were Awarded Victory Over Senior Girls Yesterday

The Greenhills Debating society held its first debate of the season yesterday afternoon, in the high school, when a team composed of boys of the 1921 class, who are taking a postgraduate course, defeated a team made up of senior girls. The winning trio upheld the affirmative side of, Resolved: That the United States government shall recognize the soviet government of Russia.

Both sides of the contestants delivered their speeches in a commendable manner, the subject appeared a bit too deep for them, and only in few instances were allegations substantiated by full preponderance of evidence. During the presentation of the arguments the negative side refused to have all the force of the but when the affirmative upheld the affirmative side, not only answered every demand made upon it in a conclusive manner, but took exceptions to certain allegations made by the negative side in a manner which greatly weakened the arguments against the point at issue.

The affirmative attempted to show that the soviet government was a stable one and that, inasmuch as other large world powers had recognized Russia, the United States could not do otherwise and maintain its position in the world. Attention was also called to the great natural resources of Russia.

The negative claimed Russia was not a fit country to recognize and that it was full of Reds who were not fit to deal with. The case of the Wall street bomb plot was brought in as an example to show the culture of people the affirmative side urged the United States to deal with.

In opening the debate, James Howe of the affirmative side reminded the audience that every one of the contestants were loyal Americans and only facts that could be proved, and which had been proved, would be used.

The affirmative side was composed of James Howe, Myer Arlinsky and Meyer Lipchitz, while the negative side was made up of Dorothy Whiting, Mary X. Sullivan and Frances Richardson. They spoke in the order named.

All the speakers were well received and applauded after their addresses but the work of Mr. Lipchitz and Miss Richardson, both senior members of their teams, was especially brilliant. During the argument the individual speakers worked up a personal enthusiasm, and delivered their lines slowly and in a convincing manner.

The judges, Henry H. Harlan, principal of the school, John D. McKinley, instructor in Latin, and Morton A. Startzman, instructor in English, were divided in their opinion, as the vote was two to one, David P. Conner, president of the Greenhills society, presided over the meeting.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS TO REGULATE LIQUOR

GENEVA, Jan. 12.—(By Associated Press)—The question of regulation of the liquor trade with Africa and the aftermath of the attempt of ex-Emperor Charles at the restoration of the Hapsburg dynasty in Hungary complicated yesterday's session of the League of Nations' session of the Aland limitation treaty.

Agreement on this point was expected without prolonged debate, however, and with the entire text of the treaty proper already virtually approved and the first of the treaty annexes embodying a replacement chart disposed of, the delegation heads hoped to have the treaty completed and ready for public discussion at a plenary session Saturday or Monday. To make this possible, the Japanese delegates expect to receive tomorrow Tokyo's reply to their memorandum regarding the Pacific fortifications agreement.

The Japanese and Chinese held another meeting today on the Shantung question after concluding a tentative agreement yesterday regarding withdrawal of Japanese troops within the province.

Neutralty of territory by the member states of the league.

The council heard representatives of Estonia, Lithuania and Latvia, who explained the measures their government had taken. They said adequate laws already had been adopted but that further measures were under consideration.

The council's refusal to grant the German demands regarding the Saare Valley came in resolutions which set forth the decision that no action be taken by the council on the German protest against the rulings of the Saare commission as to what constitutes an "inhabitant" of the Saare, and against the present French commission. The council simply sent the Germans a copy of the commission's report on the protest and re-elected the present commission.

The council simply sent the Germans a copy of the commission's report on the protest and re-elected the present commission.

The council, in acknowledging a letter from Hungary in which it was contended that Sir James Ede Brummond, general secretary of the League of Nations, should have summoned the Council of the League at the time the ex-emperor made his attempt, replied that the secretary had no authority so to act, and the council did not desire to discuss the situation now as it would be useless.

The council voted to name a commission to study methods of conciliation between nations of the world as proposed by Norway and Sweden.

Rejection of the German demands against the chairmanship of the Saare Valley governing commission being held by a Frenchman and protection of Baltic minorities, were questions which occupied attention yesterday morning.

The council, upon motion by Great Britain, accepted the obligations to the convention for the council's guarantee for execution of the Aland Islands treaty and defense of the legal status of the islands.

This is the first League of Nations agreement involving the guarantee of the present commission.

(Special to The Sun)

BOSTON, Jan. 12.—Owners of "stills" which explode and cause damage to the property can be held civilly responsible for such damage, according to a replacement chart disposed of, the delegation heads hoped to have the treaty completed and ready for public discussion at a plenary session Saturday or Monday. To make this possible, the Japanese delegates expect to receive tomorrow Tokyo's reply to their memorandum regarding the Pacific fortifications agreement.

Neutralty of territory by the member states of the league.

The council heard representatives of Estonia, Lithuania and Latvia, who explained the measures their government had taken. They said adequate laws already had been adopted but that further measures were under consideration.

During the past year, Marshal Neal said today, there have been several fires caused by exploding stills, but none have caused such extensive damage as that in Chelsea. The marshal expressed confidence that private owners of property can recover for damages in such cases and that cities and towns may also recover for the expense of extinguishing any fire which may result from such an explosion.

Marshal Neal urges that every chief of police instruct his patrolmen to make a careful canvass along their routes, to ascertain the places where stills are being operated, and then to bring the operators into both the state and federal courts. In this way, he said, life can be made so unhappy for amateur distillers that they will ultimately be forced out of business.

AND FIVE YEARS AGO

Boston people heard of Henry Duncan's savings bank for the working people.

A group of citizens who wanted to help the city, and the people who lived in it, decided to start a savings bank after Duncan's idea.

A savings bank was opened in Boston in December, 1816, and was the first savings bank in America to be granted a charter.

Soon other banks were started in different places, so that today there are 106 of them in Massachusetts alone.

Savings banks are for the safe keeping and safe investing of the people's money.

CITY COUNCIL MEETING GAVE "SURE-THING" TIPS

Councilors Will Meet This Evening—Busy and Important Session Anticipated

The city council will hold its third regular meeting since organization tonight at 8 o'clock and it is expected that more real business will be transacted than at the two previous meetings combined.

Substantiation for this belief is found by many people at city hall in the fact that an informal conference of councilors has occurred since the last regular meeting, one week ago, the first of its kind and that the discussions of this private session have paved the way for smoother and faster business accomplishment tonight.

If the council wishes in the majority to take action for the election of five administrative officers, it can vote to take from the table the nominations of Charles E. Alway for chief of the fire department; John V. Myers for purchasing agent; Edward J. Mulvey for superintendent of charities; Francis A. Warnecke for superintendent of public buildings and W. C. MacBrayne for superintendent of police.

In addition to this, a quorum of the council has not yet elected a city auditor.

Mayor George H. Brown already has intimated that he will not send any further nominations to the council until the present batch on the table is acted upon. In case this is done, however, the mayor undoubtedly will send more names along for the council's consideration. New nominations probably will include three men for the board of assessors.

The committee on rules, Counsellor McParland, chairman, will make a report tonight and if the work of that committee is finished, request probably will be made to have some action taken on their adoption.

PARIS, Jan. 12. (By the Associated Press).—President Millerand today accepted the resignation of Premier Briand and his entire cabinet, and indicated he would not ask any one to form a new ministry before tomorrow. Minister of War Barthou and former President Poincaré were mentioned prominently in parliamentary lobbies as likely candidates for the task of forming a new government.

President Millerand, according to custom, summoned M. Bourgeois and M. Peret, presidents of the senate and chamber of deputies, respectively, for a conference on the situation. But M. Peret was delayed by the necessity of the chamber's reconvening to adopt its program without the presence of a new government.

M. Briand's intention to resign was announced to the chamber at the close of his hour's speech. The announcement came as an entire surprise, as he had apparently won the sympathy of the chamber. His colleagues of the cabinet were filled with amazement at his sudden determination.

M. Briand, after making his announcement left the chamber alone. The members of the cabinet followed as soon as they had recovered from their surprise.

Groups of députés and government officials speedily gathered in excited discussion of the seriousness of the situation, seeking a way out of the difficulty.

M. Briand was given a tremendous ovation as he left the chamber of députés and great crowds of députés surged about him to shake hands. A poll of the chamber after suspension of the session showed between 330 and 390 in favor of the premier.

Seven local theatres, including motion picture houses and B. F. Keith's, will not open next Sunday, nor was the subject brought up by Mr. Brown.

For the past week the mayor has asserted repeatedly that unless the theatres were willing to give 50 per cent of their net profits to some worthy charity, he would not recognize any applications for licenses placed before him.

It was further stated by the mayor that he had designated next Sunday as a benefit day for St. John's hospital and after conferring with the telephone with Miss Rose Dowd, he informed the latter that all arrangements were in her hands—that she should see the theatre managers and make all

Proclaim Martial Law in Texas

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 12.—Martial law at Mexia, Tex., and the surrounding oil field, was proclaimed today by Governor Neff. Brig. Gen. Jacob F. Wolters of Houston, will assume command at Mexia and has power to call on such Texas national guard forces as may be necessary to enforce the law. Texas Rangers have been on duty in the Mexia oil fields since Saturday, when in co-operation with other officers, they inaugurated a "cleanup" campaign against alleged saloons and gambling resorts. Martial law became effective at 5 o'clock today, under the proclamation.

Gov. Neff's proclamation said: "An intolerable situation exists in local officers are either unable or unwilling to maintain and enforce the law. The open and flagrant violation of the law. Highway robbery is frequent occurrence, accompanied in cause acts of violence on citizens of some cases by the murder of peaceful and law-abiding citizens; gambling houses are in full operation day and night, protected by armed men; intoxicating liquor is being openly sold over the bar, as well as in bottles and other containers; multitude of unfortunate women ply their nefarious

TrialProsecution, Headed by Atty.
Gen. Allen Vigorously
Opposed Move

BOSTON, Jan. 12.—Efforts to impeach Robert P. Matches of Kansas City, Mo., as a witness were made today at the trial of District Attorney Joseph C. Pelletier before the supreme court on charges of misconduct in office. Matches testified last week that he understood Pelletier was to get $5000 or a $20,500 fee paid by the Emerson Motors Co. of New York to avert pronouncement here in 1918. Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, senior counsel, sought to discredit Matches by the latter's application to President Harding for pardon for a three year sentence imposed by a federal court at New York in 1918, for misuse of the mala in connection with stock sales. The prosecution, headed by Attorney General J. Weston Allen, vigorously opposed the move of Pelletier's counsel, arguing that the matter under discussion was merely a collateral issue.

After a long recess to consider the question, the full bench returned with a ruling that Senator Reed might continue his questions directed at showing a contradiction between Matches' testimony at this trial and statements made in his application for pardon. It held, however, that questions of two statements made by him was true, were not permissible, as it had not

REPORTED MISSING

Mayor George H. Brown today sent his private secretary, Joseph A. Cloutier, with two assistants, to the Chelmsford Street hospital, with instructions to make a complete survey and inventory of the stock and equipment, now at the hospital, keeping a particular eye upon provisions stored there.

"I have done this," said the mayor, "so that I may ascertain the exact amount of stock on hand and the general condition of things at the hospital."

Although it could not be definitely confirmed today, it was said that appraisers appointed by the mayor have finished an investigation of other city departments and institutions and that in one place a considerable amount of supplies could not be accounted for, although contracts and receipts for them were said to have been found.

Mayor Brown also said today that in one or two instances reports have come to him regarding the disappearance of supplies and material in different departments, and speaking for the mayor, City Solicitor Tierney said that he would take up any further reports of losses that might come to his attention, directly with the district attorney.

That is the weather forecast report for tomorrow, but Lowell folks are just now trying to get rid of several inches of snow that fell during the 75-mile-an-hour gale that struck the city unawares yesterday morning and made a bad name for itself when the results of the havoc suffered by electric light, power and street railway companies was figured up.

Although much of the snow was put out by the street railway people, the city is trying to look pleasant. The street railway people were severely hit by the gale and heavy snow blockades, but it wouldn't have been as bad if the trolley wires hadn't been damaged by fire due to many short circuits.

Twenty-eight trolley wires were burned out during the storm. The snow, swept by a high wind, blocked most of the out-of-town trolley line connections and although several lines have been opened this morning, one or two more have yet to be completely dug out.

More than 150 extra men were engaged by the street railway company to keep its lines from complete tie-up. Most of them worked all night. Today, another large gang has put out every available combination going out to the line blockades reported in almost every section of the city.

It was a bad situation that confronted the snowplow men and line-men this morning, but the morning's campaign resulted in most of the central-city lines being opened for travel. Car service has been maintained in fairly good shape on

Caesar Misch Company Buys Block
Which It Has Occupied
For Several Years

Alexander Strauss, Inc., which conducts the well known Caesar Misch clothing stores in Lowell and other New England cities, announced today the purchase of the four-story brick building at 220 Central street, which it has been occupying under lease for many years. The concern plans to utilize it to renovate the upper floors in order to meet the increasing demands of the Misch business in this section of Middlesex county. The entire building is now used, but additional facilities are needed in both the tailoring rooms and the stock departments.

The price paid by Alexander Strauss, Inc., for this well known business structure on Central street, which is among the very best mercantile establishments in the neighborhood, thoroughly well built and modern in every way, was not given out by the purchaser, but the total assessed valuation of the land is $22,400, and the building $10,000. It is stated that the price paid for the property is one that proves the assertion made in many local real estate circles today that property values in the heart of Lowell's business section

PUBLIC SERVICE BOARD WILL FIX SALARIES

Considerable interest is being shown in the contemplated action of the board of public service in fixing the salaries of the city engineer, superintendent of streets and superintendent of works, who were elected by the board a few days ago.

At present none of the three men know what his salary for 1922 will be and, unless an announcement is made by the board, this fact will be determined until the salary payments are made for the first of February.

Police
Notice

Obtaining labor in Lowell for a Baltimore "magnate," who was soon to build a huge mill, proved disastrous for Manuel C. Vasconcellos of Boston, a baron, whom the police arrested last night and charged with larceny after thoroughly investigating his transactions with foreigners in this city. Manuel, who made a clean breast of his "schemes," which the authorities say is very "slazy" and looks to be of a fraudulent nature, was arraigned before Judge Knight this morning and at the request of counsel was granted a continuance to Jan. 19 under bail of $2000 each.

The charge of larceny arose from the sale of small brass checks for $3.25 each, which the defendant is alleged to have disposed of to five men in this city during the past few days. These checks, according to the attorney, related to the authorities by the alleged offender, were to pay for each laborer's room and board for the first day after his arrival on "the job" in Baltimore. The local men who are supposed to have purchased these checks and on whose complaint the police investigation resulted and the arrest followed have given their names as Francisco Placido, of Elliot street; Edward Dennis, of Wiggin court; John Andrade, of Linden street; Manuel Govela, of Tilden street, and Anthony Gonsalves of Bradford street.

About a month ago Vasconcellos, he told the police, returning from a visit

CALL FOR VOTE IN FORD-
NEWBERRY CONTEST

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Call for a vote in the Ford-Newberry election contest was made in the Senate shortly after 2:30 o'clock yesterday and the chair put the first question, the Willis amendment denouncing expenditure of money in such large sums as in the 1918 senatorial campaign in Michigan. Proceedings, however, were interrupted by a call for a quorum.

All persons who have recently closed bank from certain cities which have had offers open to the public, are invited to come to this office by letter or in person.

It is requested that the names of all persons and organizations which have been engaged in the transaction, be given to the Board of Internal Revenue.

The business of selling doubtful stocks has been among working people who have thousands of dollars as a result of the activity of out-of-town men in Lowell and vicinity. We are given against these companies enough examination of the documents of these companies made before investing in them.

Quincy Granite Cutters Quit Work

QUINCY, Jan. 12.—The granite shops of this city were virtually without cutters today as a result of the protest action by the Granite Cutters' union against the request of manufacturers that the men accept a wage reduction of $2 a day. Approximately 500 men were said to have followed the union's decision to "refrain from work." James Duncan, president of the Granite Cutters' International association said that any wage reduction at this time would be a violation of the working agreement which runs until April 1. Under this agreement, he said, a daily wage of $8 was provided. Notices posted in the plants of members of the Granite Manufacturers' association, asked the men to accept a $8 wage.

Bill to Permit Cities to Borrow Money to be Loaned to Their Citizens

(Special to The Sun)
BOSTON, Jan. 12.—A bill to relieve housing conditions, by permitting cities and towns to borrow money to be loaned to their citizens for home building was filed with the clerk of the senate yesterday by Senator John H. Dailey of New Bedford.

It provides that "for the purpose of loaning money to their citizens, secured by first mortgages thereon, in order to enable them to construct dwellings, cities and towns may borrow money in excess of the statutory limit of indebtedness to an amount equal to one per cent of their assessed valuation, but any bond, note or certificate of indebtedness issued therefor shall be payable in not more than 10 years from the date of its issue. Any citizen thereof owning a parcel of land suitable for the erection thereon of a dwelling house, and whose title thereto is approved by the city or town collector may apply to the city or town treasurer for a loan thereon. No loan shall be made under this section for less than two thousand dollars nor more than four thousand dollars, and in no case for more than three-fourths of the contract price for the erection of such dwellings, the plans and specifications for which, together with the contract price, shall be approved by the local building inspector or officer exercising similar powers. The interest rate on such loans shall be fixed as provided by section 23 of chapter 44 and shall not nearly as ascertainable as at the same rate of interest paid by the city or town on any current indebtedness incurred by it for the purposes of this section. No person shall directly or indirectly apply for a loan hereunder who has already been granted prior loan under the provisions of this act."

Other bills filed yesterday include: Of the American Federation of Labor, for the appointment of a special commission to investigate the opportunities and methods for higher education;

Of Lester L. Fearing and others, that women be liable for jury service, except trained nurses, assistants in hospitals, attendant nurses, those nursing sick members of their own family, those with one or more children less than 12 years of age, and such others as come within the same classifications as men who are exempted;

Of Rep. Orlando F. Ridwell of Great Barrington, to require the marking of all bovine animals which have been tested for tuberculosis and have reacted to the test.

Here's the Story—

In just a short while we're going to take down our sign and move to our new store, which is rapidly being made ready for us at our new building, corner Dutton and Merrimack Sts.

Naturally, I don't want to move a bit more of our present stock than I have to. There are two reasons.

First—I want to start the new season in our new store with fresh new stock.

Second—There's the loss of handling and the cost of moving to be considered.

So, I'm going to leave the old store with the Greatest Sale of Shoes that I ever held.

That's going pretty strong, isn't it? But I mean it, every word. The blue pencil has been worked overtime cutting prices all the way through the store. We haven't missed a thing that I know about. It's a real "Bargain Party" for everybody, from baby to grandfather, and we want everyone of you to share the savings.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

By Theatres' Own Press Agents.

B. F. KEEFEE'S THEATRE

Funny Johnny Burke, who gives one wholly humorous idea of army life, at the B. F. Keith theatre this week, proves himself one of the very best comedians of the current season. He is original in much that he says, and surely one who joins at him must burst outright into laughter. He is the funny soldier who gives his own ideas of being drafted. And there is a clever leading man of the company, making new friends by the score at all performances. The others of the cast are most acceptable. Don't miss attraction. Next week's offering will

THE STRAND

An unusual story of the underworld and the far-reaching fingers of the police detective will be seen in "Goliath," Marguerite Fonda and her own company at the Opera House one of the very best offerings that local audiences have enjoyed in recent years. The story is a good one, while Harry Hollingsworth, the big, clever leading man of the company, is making new friends by the score at all performances. The others of the cast are most acceptable. Don't miss attraction. Next week's offering will

Residents of Lower Highlands Are Jubilant Over Purchase of Washington Park

That the residents of the Lower Highlands district are rejoicing over the recent purchase of Washington park by the city for playground purposes was fully demonstrated last evening, when over 300 men and boys braved the storm and gathered in the Notre Dame de Lourdes' parish hall in East Pine street to participate in the jollification held under the auspices of the Lower Highlands Improvement association, the organization which was mainly responsible for the purchase of the park. The program re-needed great credit upon the committee in charge.

In attendance as guests were Mayor George H. Brown, Councillor Smith J. Adams, Rep. Adelard Berard, Thomas E. McKay and Capt. John W. Kerman, of the park board, Ex-Mayor Perry Thompson and the other members of the 1921 city council; who had the project through had been invited to be present, but evidently the storm kept them away.

In the early part of the evening the Zouaves Drum Corps under the direction of Arthur Mattox rendered numerous and later there were vocal selections by George Merritt, George Laemmle, E. J. Larchelle and the Spina City quartet composed of Raymond Chardouin, Emile Jobin, Leo Christian and George Corriveau. The accompanists were Henri Berard and Leo Ledoux.

Thomas J. Fitzgerald, president of the association and chairman of the committee on the park proposition, brought to a close with brief remarks in the French language by President Fitzgerald. At the close of the program an informal reception was held and a buffet luncheon was served, while cigars were passed.

The committee responsible for the purchase of the park and the success of the evening's program consisted of the following: Thomas J. Fitzgerald, chairman; J. Joseph Beauparlant, secretary; Rev. Joseph A. Dehls, O. M. I.; Rep. Victor F. Jewett, Rep. Adelard Berard, Councillor Smith J. Adams, Louis J. Lord and Joseph Provost.

"We have skating facilities at the park," continued Mr. Fitzgerald, "but we need seats and electric lights and we hope the park department will favor us with those improvements without a shanty time. We also want the park department to equip the grounds with swings and other apparatus which go to make a modern playground. Next summer we hope to have band concerts and moving pictures. I also believe it would be a wise move on the part of the city to seize by right of eminent domain the little cottage house and the land it occupies, on the Middlesex street side of the park for a Middlesex street entrance. I understand, that Mr. Doherty, proprietor of Doherty's Foundry, who owns a small strip of land near the park, is willing to give it up to the city for the abatement of taxes."

Mr. Fitzgerald then referred to the necessity of a park in that district, and said in his opinion it is far better for the city to spend $100,000 in a congested district than to spend a dollar where it is not needed. Much reference to the danger encountered by children who were often forced to play on the street and said the parents of the district would now feel safe for their children will have a place for their amusements. In closing he paid a compliment to the members of the park department and extended to them the thanks of the association for the great part they took in bringing the project to a successful end.

The next speaker was Councillor Smith J. Adams, who informed his listeners that he has always been interested in public parks and he stated that as long as he is a member of the city government he will always fight for the improvement of parks and playgrounds. "Through the good efforts of the park department," he said, "we now have Washington park, but our work is not finished and we shall continue with the same spirit until we receive what we want." He told of improvements needed in the new park to make it a beauty spot and closed by pleading his support for the welfare of the community.

Rev. Joseph A. Dehls, O. M. I., assistant pastor of Notre Dame de Lourdes, who has been a tireless worker for the park project, told of his love for the boys of the district and said he identified with the members of the association. He complimented the association for the great work accomplished, for he did not believe in the beginning that the project would be carried through because of lack of money. He stated that in his opinion Washington park will become one of the most popular playgrounds in the city and said he believed in time it would be made one of the most attractive in the city.

Mayor Brown was next introduced and he also warmly congratulated the association for the good work accomplished. He said he realized the needs of the park in the line of improvements. He reminded his listeners that although the park was purchased by last year's government the burden of paying for the land rests upon the 1922 government. "We city officials are apt to proclaim anything we continue," and man not be able to keep our promises but it will be seen that your committee will do its projects after seeing the members of the park department, the mayor and the city controllers have Rev. Mr. Denis call on me and I will see that your demands are granted." The mayor, then told of his action in establishing an employment bureau, which he believes will be of great benefit to the citizens at large and he concluded by saying that during his term of office he will endeavor to make Lowell the cleanest, the healthiest and the most Christian city in the world.

Superintendent Kerman of the park department said in his opinion the two lots adjoining the park in Middlesex street should be taken over by the city. He said an abutment wall with a heavy wire fence should be built on the canal side of the park and the park should be equipped with the proper apparatus, which would not cost over $1,000. He stated his listeners to provide moving pictures and community singing for them next summer and closed by extending the regards of Commissioners Weed, Marceline Greene for not being able to be present.

Others who addressed the gathering were Park Commissioner McKay, Louis J. Lord, Representative Berard and Joseph Provost. The meeting was

Mothers Used to Say

Give me the good old fashioned remedies made from roots and herbs in preference to the new fangled patent medicines on the market. I remember that when I had Indigestion, was Constituted, had a Headache or my stomach was out of order, my mother would give me an old and reliable remedy called SEVEN BARKS and it would straighten me out in no time, so I always keep a bottle in the home for emergencies.

Colds and Grippe frequently will leave you with weak kidneys and aching back. The kidneys get overworked fighting off a cold or a contagious disease. When the stomach is out of order, the kidneys and liver not working properly, a few doses of SEVEN BARKS will stimulate the liver and kidneys, regulate the bow of bile, expel distressing solids and dangerous poisons, and quickly restore you back to good digestion.

For nearly half of a century SEVEN BARKS has been recognized as one of the most reliable remedies for correcting and preventing disorders of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. It is absolutely safe, made from the extracts of roots and herbs, scientifically blended.

If you have never tried SEVEN BARKS do not fail to do so, and watch the rapid and wonderful results. Your dentist keeps it, or will get it for you—Adv.

to inaugurate ordinary social relations, and each goes his separate way trying to make the best of circumstances unavoidable in an occupied area. Many German families of the upper class have left Coblenz since the occupation began rather than put up with the inconveniences brought about in the matter of billeting, all of the occupied cities being short of housing and of free space and consequently overcrowded.

Left David L. Stone, representative of Gen. Allen on the latter-called Rhine-Rhod high commission, also addressed the officers, describing the organization and duties of the commission and the general effect of American participation in the Rhine-Rhod occupation. Col. Stone said many Americans and Europeans who had visited the area were of the opinion that, because of American impartiality with regard to European affairs, the mere fact of American forces participating in the occupation and continuing to do so, would have a far-reaching influence upon the progress of stabilization of Central European affairs.

Still greater effect would be shown Col. Stone said, as the American forces displayed in themselves the traditional reputation of the United States for justice and square dealing. It is urged every American officer to realize this and to impress the fact upon the enlisted man, and that each and every American should do his own for him. Col. Stone urged the American individual part in the great work to be done to post themselves upon European conditions so that upon returning home each could give his friends a clear insight to the actual conditions which confront this part of the world today.

As has often been said by writers and speakers, Col. Stone said in conclusion, the various economic situation in Europe affected the United States, and until proper conditions were restored over here there could be no return to normalcy in the United States which depends extensively upon European trade as an outlet to the many of its vast industries and that, on this account, as well as for the good of humanity, the Americans generally at home should take an active interest in bringing about the earliest economic rehabilitation of Europe.

As has often been said by writers and speakers, Col. Stone said in conclusion, the various economic situation in Europe affected the United States, and until proper conditions were restored over here there could be no return to normalcy in the United States which depends extensively upon European trade as an outlet to the many of its vast industries and that, on this account, as well as for the good of humanity, the Americans generally at home should take an active interest in bringing about the earliest economic rehabilitation of Europe.

benefits, are insistent that a new company be formed. The executives of the old company, therefore, are about to split, one group going to a place which they say will contain the best features of the old concern, but with certain changes, found necessary through experience.

A widespread series of strikes during the past year coupled with business depression was responsible for the failure of the old company, the former management asserted.

It is pointed out that strike insurance has become standardized in Europe, where it is claimed, experience has proved it not only the practical means for distributing the money loss caused by strikes, but was even more useful in promoting unity of purpose among employers.

The local company was operated on a mutual basis with an assessment legally limited to an amount equal to the annual premium. Specific items insured by such a plan are the fixed charges, that is, all expenses which necessarily continue whether the plant is in operation or not.

Premium rates have a wide range.

One of the unique features of the congress will be the presence of a number of women contractors who are prominent in road building circles. Prominent among these will be Mrs. Axel Holm, of South Range, Wis., who has just completed a four and a half mile state highway through Patterson State park, near Superior, Wis.

Another contractor engaged in road building, who will probably attend is Miss Eva Cresson, of Everett, Mass., while still another is Dr. Lou Alta Melton, said to be the only woman bridge engineer in the country. Dr. Melton graduated from Colorado university and is now identified with one of the district offices of the United States Bureau of Public Roads.

Another woman who will take part in the deliberations of the congress is Miss H. M. Berry of Chapel Hill, N.C., who is secretary of the North Carolina Good Roads Association and who was instrumental in obtaining the $50,000 bond issue for the construction of roads in her state.

The Most Perfect Baby in Five States!

HARRY DENNIS has made an enviable record for perfect health and physique. Not only was he Michigan's prize baby—for which he won $500—but also he has been adjudged the best baby in five states, winning $1,000 more.

"He has been raised on Eagle Brand," Mrs. Dennis writes us, though, of course, her own care and his fine constitution have been partly responsible for his splendid development.

Harry, Jr., was put through the most rigid and careful tests, and then retested. He competed against many thousands of fine, healthy children, so that his achievement is most exceptional.

Countless other mothers besides Mrs. Dennis have found that Eagle Brand makes strong, robust, sturdy children—perfect physically and of keen and active mentality. Thousands of them have testified to its benefits. Physicians recommend it for babies who are undernourished, weak and underweight. For

Eagle Brand is very easily digested and has proved itself invaluable in stubborn feeding cases.

Would YOU experiment with your baby's food?

What mother who has her baby's welfare at heart would experiment on him with foods whose purity is doubtful? Mother's milk is best for baby, of course. But if for any reason you cannot nurse your baby, don't take risks with him. Eagle Brand has been the standard baby food for sixty-four years. For three generations it has reared splendid, healthy little boys and girls—given them the fair start that every child ought to have.

Eagle Brand is not really a special or prepared food at all. It is milk—country milk and pure sugar. It is the natural food for children when mother's milk fails.

Ask your grocer.

Eagle Brand is available everywhere. Any grocer has it. It is always sure, safe, dependable—uniform wherever and whenever you get it.

One end of the bar was ground to a razor edge, and it would easily open any window. The other end of the bar was bent into a U, and the extremity of the U was made into a claw like that of a hammer. With such instruments the lads easily ripped open freight cars and floors and went through a door almost as easily as if it had been open.

DID HOUSEWORK IN WHEEL CHAIR CRIPPLED WITH RHEUMATISM

Winthrop Woman Now Walks and Claims Recovery Due to Weldonona

"I am now able to do my work walking about after being confined to a wheel chair by rheumatism," said Mrs. L. M. Grundy, who lives at 294 Revere street, Winthrop, Mass. She continued:

"I suffered for five years from rheumatism. My knees were sore and stiff and I had to lift in and out of

"I had heard a great deal about Weldonona, and thought I would give it a trial. I had not taken Weldonona more than a month before I saw it was helping me and by continuing the treatment I am able to get about the house without my wheel chair and now do my housework without any assistance whatever. MONTHS OF SUFFERING

Baltimore, Maryland.—"For several months I suffered with severe backache and general weakness. I could not sleep comfortably at night for pains in my back. I found your book at home one day and after reading it began at once to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have had very good results and some of my girl friends are taking it now. You may use this letter to help other girls, as the letters in your book helped me."—ROSE WADNER, 2018 Roseland Place, Baltimore, Md.

That is the thought so often expressed in letters recommending Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. These women know what they have suffered, they describe their symptoms and state how they were finally made well. Just plain statements, but they want other women to be helped.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine made from medicinal roots and herbs, and without drugs, to relieve the sickness women so often have, which is indicated by backache, weak feelings, nervousness, and no ambition to get anything done or to go anywhere. It has helped many women. Why not try it?

Atken street, the Varnum Avenue line to the hospital, end of the Pawtucketville line, Gorham street as far as Davis square, and the Highlands open to Parker street. Other lines were kept open during the night without much trouble, Christian Hill being one of the easiest to handle.

The main line to Reading is open, also the line to Lawrence. Forty men were required to get the Reading connection again.

A total of 14 plows were sent out by the railway company, and three large sweepers. The rotary plow was not used, as the snow was too heavy. The Middlesex street line to North Chelmsford caused some trouble, but cars are moving freely this noon. The Highland route is open almost to the end. The "double rail" does not extend clear through to Reading, but one track is open and the other closed only in one short section.

The street railway furnished free meals and plenty of coffee for its men last night and today, and all men required to work overtime had their meals paid for. Today the hills were still coming in and the boys were pleased with their fine treatment.

Half men say the storm hit the local company about as hard as any in the state, and the worst trouble was the large number of burned out wires. Sometimes a short circuit would set a wire on fire that would burn brightly for nearly half an hour. There were similar bursts of flame all over the city last night and early this morning.

The electric light corporations reported at noon that most of the wires damaged by the storm, would be repaired by nightfall. Centralville, Westford, North Chelmsford and some sections of Gorham, Thoreau and Middlesex street lines were hit by the worst trouble caused by short circuits. Several main cables were burned out in spots, but the repairs were quickly made today, and very few serious complaints have come into the company.

As the Boston train approached, the trio mingled in with the crowd, and when other passengers attempted to board the cars the man who was not arrested got on the lower deck and momentarily blocked the entrance. In the meantime, the sergeant continued, Lynch and Harris had "boxed" Mr. Wilder and were attempting to get at his trouser pockets performing their operations with their hands concealed under his coat.

Both men were represented by counsel but no defense was introduced. The lengthy records possessed by the two alleged offenders furnished the police by the state department of correction were submitted to the court of Deputy Downey. Both Lynch and Harris admitted to the Judge that they had been known under names given in their records.

Thomas E. Lynch, as Timothy E. Conley was committed to the state reformatory for five years in 1892 for larceny in South Boston, according to the records given out by the correction department. Released shortly after, under the name of Thomas E. Charlton, Lynch was sent to the state prison from the Suffolk superior court for a term of from 14 to 18 years for robbery, and in March of 1913 was committed to Deer Island for six months for attempted larceny from the person.

Charles A. Harris, under the name of Charles Johnson, was arrested in Boston in 1911 for alleged pickpocketing, but was discharged. In December 7, 1921, as James Hall, he was taken in Cambridge for attempted larceny from the person and given a suspended sentence. The record also shows that Hall, under the name George Holloman was arrested in 1911 and John on May 22, 1920, for alleged attempted larceny from the person.

most of the lines kept open, although there have been some delays due to wire trouble, heavy snow on the tracks and slight blockades due to auto traffic stoppages.

The last of burned out wires includes street railway service lines on Lawrence street near the Charles River, Parker avenue, Neponset and East Main, Merrimack street, High street, Hilliard, Moody street (partly), Tyngsboro Avenue, streetcar lines on Avenue and Middlesex streets, Bowden and Gorham streets, Grand and Westford, Lane and Westford, Brookside, Turnout, Grand and Chelmsford streets, Parker, Plaza and Crescent streets, Reed and Forest streets, fair grounds district, First street, 602 Lakeview avenue, Rainhead hills, Pine and Stevens, upper Lakeview avenue, Centralville, Bridge street.

Among the railway lines heavily blockaded by snow, but which were opened this morning after long, hard work on the part of the snowplow forces and shovelers was the streetcar line, the Lakeview line as far from some of the burdens that frequently attend similar storms in the blizzard variety. Manager Lees considers the work of the snow plow men, "extra" and the extra force, in fact, as one of the finest exhibitions of energy ever seen locally. At the same time, this storm was somewhat different from other storms that have come under warmer weather conditions. The snow last night did not cling to the trolley wires so tightly. One of the best service lines in the city was that running to Christian Hill. Plows and cars were working all night to keep rails and trolley wires clear, and the regular schedules were maintained this morning with only slight delay.

The colder weather this morning interfered somewhat with the clearing of tracks in the open country, but the work was kept up all night, and in most cases this morning the rails were fairly clear and traffic continuing on delayed schedules.

Manager Lees of the street railway company figured in about the only accident that the company considered worth reporting, although numerous cars were put out of commission for the time being, one Christian Hill car nearly getting on fire when a burst of flames shot out from in front of the motorman and gave a bunch of coals to his first New Year's thrill.

Mr. Lees' little flying trip in a snow corner of one of the big snow lines had started down the line to clear away the snow, prayed exciting when the plow became derailed at the corner of Stevens and Middlesex streets and ran head-on into a tree. No one was injured and Manager Lees never even had to unbuckle his coat.

The overhead system was tackled by the storm early enough to keep the lines from being cut. The lines were down during the late afternoon, and there were other repairs necessary where the wires were not strongly attached to arms or holders.

Light Out Again
Quarter-acre city farms owners in the residential districts around Westford

still, except where an occasional snow plow pushed its way along and some excited motorist agitated by the blowing out of a fuse, gave vent to his real feelings by hitting the old controller a couple of nasty slaps just as if the brass clinkers had anything to do with the condition of the tracks ahead or the overheads.

The steam railroads had no difficulty clearing the storm and gate to the finish line. Some of the northern trains were late, but there was no delay in freight traffic on the main lines, and although the yards are choked up with snow this morning, the necessary tracks for traffic and freight shifting transfer purposes are open.

The telephone lines were open all night in most sections, very few serious troubles being reported during the evening.

The electric light corporation suffered in the Princeton street section, Holmdale, Centralville, Christian Hill and in North Chelmsford, among other places. A good many lights faded away in thousands of Lowell homes about 6:00 p.m. the supper hour. There was another scurrying around for candles, lamps, and flashlights. One Centralville store, restocked for just such an emergency, coined more money last night and reported the prospect for 1922 fairly bright from the standpoint of the hand lamp market.

The electric light company reported many burned out fuses on main cable lines and house connections, caused by falling limbs, mashed wires and tree branches.

Street Department

The street department threw its entire force of about 325 men onto the streets of the city today in an attempt to make a rapid removal of the snow which clogged practically every thoroughfare except the main tracks. It is believed that the storm will cost the department about $12,000.

Fifteen regular snow gangs left the stables at 7 o'clock, augmented by the 80 men paid off this week, plus 100 more men hired temporarily today.

The efforts of Supt. Doherty were confined first to the down town streets and his plan is to work into the residential sections as speedily as possible.

At 4 a.m. a number of plows were sent out to clear sidewalks in certain sections of the city.

BIG RAID AT NORTH READING

Dry Agents Seize Distillery and Young Arsenal and Arrest Four

Biggest Seizure in Prohibition Campaign — Other Raids Announced

BOSTON, Jan. 12.—Dry Agent William and his officials, in co-operation with Chief Crosswell of North Reading, yesterday made the biggest haul in their anti-wet campaign so far. Not only did they seize stills capable of turning out great quantities of extra high proof moonshine and a large quantity of the stuff itself, but they found, ready at hand, in the building on Chestnut street, where the still was located, a young arsenal which, infernally, might have been used against dry stealth in the old Teutonic mountain fashion.

Here is a list of the stuff seized: Two 200-gallon and one 150-gallon stills, in good working order; 33 50-gallon barrels of moonshine fast becoming "shines"; 40 gallons of the stuff itself, which proved up 150 proof; 1200 pounds of sugar; 100 pounds of rye and wheat; and a miscellaneous number of utensils such as are used in distilling liquor.

Two men were running the distillery, the agents say, when they arrived with Chief Crosswell. They were taken by surprise and placed under arrest. A quick search showed the place they rounded up and placed under arrest. Philadelphia, Nichols and Joseph Gilligan, who say they live in Lawrence. They told the agents that they were not the owners of the place, but that Anthony and John G. Grana, respectively, of 57 Saratoga

Found Guilty of Attempting to Bring Schism in Church, Deprived of Rank

ATHENS, Jan. 12 (By the Associated Press).—An ecclesiastical court presided over by the Metropolitan of Athens today found Mosl Rev. Meletios Metaxakis, recently elected patriarch of Constantinople, guilty of attempting to bring about a schism in the church. It ordered that he be deprived of his every rank and secluded as a monk in the monastery at Zante. Archbishop Metaxakis was not present at the trial.

Archbishop Metaxakis left New York Dec. 30 for Constantinople. He was elected patriarch of the Greek Orthodox church in Constantinople on Dec. 8 by an overwhelming majority after which relations were broken off between the Constantinople patriarchate and the Athens government. In the debate preceding his election the Athens government was sharply criticized for alleged unfair treatment towards the uneducated Greeks.

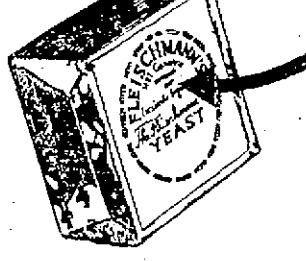

Seven members of the Constantinople synod opposed, protesting the illegality of the election and the Greek church synod at Athens adopted a resolution condemning Archbishop Metaxakis for "attempting to provoke an ecclesiastical separation, or schism, among the Greeks in America."

Fleischmann's fresh yeast increases the action of the intestines

HUNDREDS of men and women have already found freedom from laxatives by eating Fleischmann's fresh yeast.

Doctors are now agreed that proper elimination of waste matter should be brought about by food. One doctor comes right out and states plainly that the indiscriminate use of cathartics is one of the causes of constipation.

Physicians all over the country are recommending Fleischmann's fresh yeast because it is a fresh food, rich in those elements which keep the intestines healthy.

Try it out for yourself. Begin today by adding 2 or 3 cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast to your everyday diet. Keep it up and see how normally and regularly your intestines act. You can get Fleischmann's Yeast fresh daily from your grocer.

THE START AT CITY HALL

So far as the new city government has gone, it certainly has not shown an inclination to safeguard the taxpayers. Before election the cry was for economy and a lower tax rate. But in several of the things done by the new government there is displayed a spirit of extravagance which, if followed, will push the tax rate very much higher than it is at present.

Yet in this respect, perhaps, there is even a closer relation between promise and performance than can be found between the promise to close the saloons in 48 hours and the fact that they are still reported to be doing business at the old stands, with the exception of one in which the owner of the building refused to renew the lease, and not from any interference by the police.

To begin with, the public service board has appointed a committee of three men to make an inventory of two or three municipal departments, for which they are to receive the sum of eight per day without any time limit. It is hardly to be expected that they will hurry through a job that pays so liberally for work that could be done more intelligently by a few of the clerks who find it difficult to keep busy.

Then a man has been made superintendent of ash collection at eight dollars per day, whereas Thomas H. Garvey, superintendent of the health department yard, supervised the collection of ashes, swill and waste paper in addition to his various other duties, for $20.00 per week.

Does not this indicate an upper trend in salaries at city hall at a time when thousands are vainly waiting for an opportunity to earn a day's pay on the streets or sewers? But the unemployed are to be aided and the first step is to engage a registrar at a salary of $1,000 per annum. He will require a stenographer and a general clerk, which will put the expense up to about $5,000, a sum that looks big to people who are out of work and in want. This matter of registration will surely be well looked after inasmuch as already Lawyer P. J. Reynolds conducts the registration of labor at city hall for the civil service jobs and receives $900 per annum for a few hours per week. His office is necessary, however, under the civil service laws.

In addition to the other registration bureaus, the local post of the American Legion conducts a registration bureau at city hall with Adj't. Rutledge in charge for at least two hours daily. The adjutant looks out for the service men only and receives no compensation for his services. Of course it is expected that the service men are amply repaid for such work by the realization that they are helping the country by helping its defenders. Well, so they are; but in view of the triple registration arrangement at city hall, the service men must feel that they have been ignored. Still, there may be work enough for all the registrars and it is to be hoped that they will jointly or severally succeed in finding jobs for most of those who are idle.

It is true, of course, that Cornelius P. Cronin was registrar of labor during the war and that he is conversant with the methods then employed, an experience which should assist him in handling the present situation as the head of the employment bureau. It is necessary to spend money in aiding the unemployed; but there should be no extravagance in overhead expenses. Neither should there be any needless men employed at eight dollars a day while hundreds of men with large families crowded up to the bread line, are vainly looking for an opportunity to earn an honest dollar at anything they can get.

The city government is expected to make a reasonable effort within its resources to aid the unemployed; but this will best be done by the exercise of strict economy in the departments and especially in keeping overhead expenses as low as possible.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The annual report of the chamber of commerce shows that the organization has had a very prosperous year and that its record of activity in building up a better Lowell is entirely praiseworthy.

The membership at the close of the year is greater than at the close of the campaign of 1920 which, considering the business depression, is very creditable.

During the year the industrial committee succeeded in bringing five new industries to Lowell; and in referring to their location here, Secretary Wells puts the estimate too low when he says they will employ 500 hands. We understand they employ more than that number at present and the C. V. Wilson Shoe company alone will probably employ more than that number before the close of the present year. The other companies will also grow to greater proportions, so that their location here will eventually mean much for Lowell.

In aiding the business of Lowell merchants, the chamber was equally successful. Its efforts to keep down the tax rate by reducing the budget and eliminating extravagance in street construction met with vigorous opposition; but its policies were, nevertheless, for the benefit of all the people. During the year several other industries would probably have settled here but for the high tax rate, which not only increases rentals but stands as a handicap to the city's industrial growth.

"What's wrong?" asked Parker. "You look worried." "I just inserted my friend," I wrote two notes—one to my broker, asking him if he took me for a fool, and the other to Miss Golding, asking her if she would marry me. While I was out some one telephoned, "No," he said, "some Peter out and some Paul out."

"I met Barrie," said an editor, "at a dinner party in London. What a big head he's got, to be sure. 'Sir James,' I said nervously, toying with the stem of my cigarette. "Glad to see you," he said. "That son of yours did better than others? They are all successes, I imagine?" Barrie leaned his big head on its little, thin neck, toward his saucer-like eyes. "Twinkled," he said, "some Peter out and some Paul out."

The Old Master

He was a struggling Scottish farmer and he had the good fortune to win the hand of a widow who possessed in her own right the sum of $6000 pounds. She was a widow, working, and friend went in to congratulate him. "What's the good of your place do better than others? They are all successes, I imagine?" Barrie leaned his big head on its little, thin neck, toward his saucer-like eyes. "Twinkled," he said, "some Peter out and some Paul out."

Daddy Was Exasperated

Father was trying to read his evening paper while away the time in the mother's reticence from shopping. He was reading a small article on the persistent questioning of his young son, who asked for the most improbable information about the most improbable things. Father was becoming irritated. Then at the most point of parental exasperation he says, "Daddy, is there what is a she-dragon?" The man replied, "Aye, 'tis no bad," replied the farmer. "No bad? Why, it's worth $5000." "Then that's that." "No, 'tis a she-dragon." "Then that's that." "Yes, 'tis a she-dragon." "Then that's that." "Yes, 'tis a she-dragon." "Then that's that." "Yes, 'tis a she-dragon."

Sunshine Avenue

There is little doubt that men are to be found in dire distress in every city in the country at the present time. Few of them, however, are foolish enough to commit a crime for the purpose of getting arrested. They realize that in every city there is a department which stands ready to relieve any from the care of distress. It is well that persons in destitute circumstances should understand this, and that they should apply at the proper place at city hall rather than do anything desperate. The city pays out large sums annually for the purpose of aiding real distress. No taxpayer in the city ever complains of the amount spent by the charity department, provided there is no willful waste or unnecessary extravagance. The poor we have always with us and every city must do its share in relieving distress within its limits.

TO AID EUROPE

It now appears that the plan of relief proposed by the economic conference to meet at Genoa in March is to establish an International finance corporation with a capital of $10,000,000. Under the present arrangements its headquarters would be in London with a board of directors named by affiliated companies in each of the interested countries. It is also intended that these countries, to include the United States if possible, would organize other corporations for promotion only, with a combined capital of $100,000,000 for the purpose of conducting credit transactions and facilitating private enterprises in countries now hampered by lack of credit and disorganized finance.

This plan undoubtedly would help many of the European countries to start up industries which would otherwise remain inactive for lack of the necessary credit or capital. It would at least inspire confidence and promote a sort of business enthusiasm that would have a wholesome effect in hastening the business recovery of the war-torn nations.

FEWER AUTOS

Passenger autos and trucks produced in United States during 1921 totaled 1,680,000.

The 1920 output was 2,210,000 vehicles.

The drop in actual number of cars last year was 21 per cent.

Figuring It In Money or Condition

Without prices, the drop was 55 per cent.

That 15 per cent figure will be most

The price tag still persists in many heads, measuring business in terms of shrinking dollars instead of actual physical volume, tons, bushels, etc.

What is the minimum wage a girl requires to live on decently?

Twelve dollars a week, said the Massachusetts Minimum Wage Commission.

Three Boston women, social workers, checked up. Each reports she broke down trying to live on $12 a week.

There is no better citizen than the employer who in drafting wages keeps in mind that the woman wage-earner has a more difficult time than a man, and that she must be given a safe margin.

"Minimum" is the danger-point.

And now the polkewomen must take a civil service examination and prove that they are physically fit. This, however, does not imply that they will have to take boxing lessons or practice the use of the club.

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN

"It seems to me," quoted Probation Officer Joseph J. Cronin, as he looked over the crowd in the first district court room one morning recently, "that this court room acts as a pretty good barometer of the employment situation."

Standing a few paces inside his office, which adjoins the room in question, Mr. Cronin pointed out that every seat in sight was occupied and that a number were standing.

Not being a "regular" in the court room, I inquired just what Mr. Cronin meant by the statement. The fact that the court room was crowded was of no special significance to me, other than the fact that business must be pretty good.

"It isn't the fact that business is good that draws the crowd as much as it is the fact that the men have no other place to go," said Mr. Cronin.

"Day after day this court room is crowded with people, and it is a fact the same faces appear pretty frequently," he continued. He added, "Of course there is a number who come because they are interested in some particular case or case, but many of them come because they have nothing to do. I don't think many of them are students of law; at least, it doesn't appear to be the case."

"I can remember a time during the war when there would hardly be a person in that room who wasn't in some way or another connected with one of the cases. But just look at it now. This morning is not an exception, one, either, the conditions are the same nearly every day."

At one time hotels used to be considered as good barometers of business.

A crowded hotel means many traveling men on the road, much good business and a general rush of affairs.

When the hotel business was slack it generally meant business was on the decline.

Of late hotels are not considered the barometers they used to be because of the springing up of many clubs who cater to traveling men.

Naturally sessions in court are hottest attended in the cold months than in the warm ones, but it was pointed out that the condition of crowded court rooms existed when the weather was cold and inviting patrons to the great out-of-doors. It may be that the excitement of police court cases has attracted, but that does not account for the steady regular attendance.

At the third annual meeting of the Boston branch of Dickens' fellowship held in the Town room of the Twenty-first Century Club, Boston, Monday evening, I am informed, Judge John D. the 20 divisions were notified of the theft. A description of the car and its registration number was sent out with the notification and, as each station house received it, it was relayed to patrolmen on street duty as they were ringing in their duty calls.

An hour later a patrolman attached to Division 9 was plodding his beat on Humboldt ave., Roxbury, during the height of the storm, when that thoroughfare was a sea of slush, when he passed a machine parked at the curb. The car tallied with the description and registration number that he had received a few minutes before. He notified his commanding officer of the find and the automobile was later returned to the Curtis garage.

No one was arrested in connection with the theft and it is believed the thief abandoned the machine.

"The Lane That Had No Turning" Exposes Star System

THEODORE KOSLOFF

AGNES AYRES

BY JAMES W. DEAN
NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—The movie star system is a complex arrangement. The name of the star is frequently used as the box office attraction, while the work of another player is the true screen attraction.

An example of this frequent situation is "The Lane That Had No Turning," the film version of Sir Gilbert Parker's novel.

In the first starring vehicle of Agnes Ayres, but she isn't the star of — Theodore Kosloff, who was a dancer and therefore an adept in pantomime, completely overshadows the star, who enhances the picture only by her personal charm.

And that brings to mind "Paribbles Fruit," filmed more than a year ago. Miss Ayres was truly the star of that but was not killed as such.

"The Lane That Had No Turning" also bears out the assertion made frequently in these columns that the motion picture is not a form of literature.

The story has been screened in faithful adherence to the novel version. However, incidents of the book afforded a study of characters, those of a man who became warped mentally and spiritually when his body became deformed and a woman who sacrificed "all except honor" for that man.

This study in character analysis is lost on the screen. Action subordinates characterization. The film becomes melodrama.

If in the opening chapters of a book one is told that a man is descended from a family suffering with spinal disease and learns that the man meets with an accident to his back, one anticipates the malformation that ensues in later chapters. The malformation develops along with the action of the plot, the time element being taken into account.

This condition is too subtle to be effectively transferred to a motion picture whose action is encompassed in an hour. One sees a normal man one minute and a few moments later sees him hideously deformed in a manner which takes nature months to accomplish.

The same obstacle lies in the development of the change in character. The warning of a mind in either spontaneous affair, the snapping-off of a romance like the switching-off of an electric current, or a gradual process ensuing from the weight of an obsession, of a worry either real or fancied.

The illusion of this latter change is lost in a film which occupies the attention an hour or less.

properly—in order that the vicious tendency to increase these values might be checked.

"The Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad, which runs through Iowa, pays a remarkably high dividend, and in itself is another influence that is making times hard for the people of the state.

"The crest of the present crisis is passed.

"Some farmers are broke. They will have to start all over again.

"Where a man owns his farm and is not too heavily in debt, he is not hard up. He may be poor, but he can go on.

"He must go on—or his cattle will die and his property be wasted.

"The farmer who goes in for diversified farming—dairying—is best off.

"But I am glad that I lived most of my days in the old time."

Mr. Quick gave up his membership to the federal farm loan board to write of Iowa. The first novel of a trilogy will be published soon. It is called "Vandemark's Folly."

—But now—

"Times surely have changed."

Herbert Quick, noted writer and authority on farming, was speaking.

He lived through the pioneer period and knew.

"It was the days of small things, but mighty forces. The beautiful prairie was turned into a prosy, self-satisfied, wealthy agricultural state.

"When I was a boy, an Iowa farmhand working for two or three years at $25 a month could save enough to buy his own farm. Land values were low. He could get a place for $2 an acre.

"Now the man who buys a farm is crushed under debt. Values are high. He is charged $300 an acre—and usually owes $200.

"The condition of high values and the necessity of the poorer farmer to rent his land have created the hard times.

"Until the agricultural population is able to get some surging wealth to buy with, we will be in hard straits."

How to get this surplus?

Mr. Quick shrugged his shoulders.

The Land Values

"Anyone seeking to ameliorate the condition of the people both on the farm and in the city," he said, thoughtfully, "should turn his attention to the shifting of taxes from things that we eat and wear to land values—which are essentially common to all. Nothing—You must think you're gettin' to be a star."

Many people who in the last few years have suffered an attack of influenza have never recovered the full vigor of health that they enjoyed before. Influenza leaves the system debilitated and peculiarly susceptible to diseases that are caused by or depend upon thin blood. To correct these diseases when they appear and to strengthen the system so that it will resist them it is necessary to build up the blood.

"Last January," says Mrs. Ellen McLean, of No. 14 Barnes Street, Ashmont, Boston, Mass. "I had an attack of influenza and it left me in a very run-down condition. My strength was gone and I had no appetite. I suffered from neuritic pains in my shoulders which were worse at night and I got very little sleep. In the morning I would be so weak that I could not lift up my hands to do my hair. I was just able to drag myself around the house. When I was a girl I lived in New Bedford, Mass., and Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were our family remedy. I had used them for asthma and they built me up so I thought I would try them to see if I could get rid of the after-effects of the influenza. While I was on the second box I commenced to get my strength back. Soon the dull, languid feeling was gone. In three weeks I had a good appetite and my strength had returned so that I could do my housework without getting tired out."

"In a short time the neuritic pains were gone entirely. I have great faith in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for they gave me more strength and ambition than I have had in a long time. I have recommended them to others and shall continue to do so."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists or direct from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., 60 cents per box. Write for free booklet on nervous disorders.—Adv.

Boxing

While entries for tonight's big amateur boxing tournament at the Crescent ring are pouring in enough are already registered, according to Capt. P. Dodge, who is arranging the bouts to provide for at least 50 rounds of boxing.

Among those who have sent in registrations there are several from out-of-town and indications point to one of the biggest amateur events ever held in this section.

The list up to last night was as follows: 105-pound class, entries closed Tuesday night—Henry Duffy, William MacKenzie, Arthur Abbot, Jack Perry, Jack Brady, John McCarthy, Rickey Carroll, Chippy Carr, Peter Moscovitz, Dick Scolari.

115-pound class, entries closed Tuesday night—Manuel Nunes, Freddy Keefe, Manuel Roderick, Tommy Hogan, Jimmie Clinton, Peter Richard.

125-pound class, entries still open—Bobby Smith, Fred Keefe, Thomas Carr, John Brockton and other papers, showing past performances of his "tallent."

135-pound class, entries still open—Johnny McBride, William Conlon, Alphonse Melo, Larry Hendricks, Thomas McCarthy, Donal Oatman.

Referee Bill Clinton, who gave general satisfaction at the last meeting, when he handled all the bouts with out a hitch, has been again nominated for the assignment.

The Wild Man Gould and Young Astro bout will be arranged by the Moody outfit on next Tuesday night, according to announcement made today by President Dodge. Billy Murphy of the Acre, and Joe Walsh of Boston, will appear in the semi-final, and Billy Nelson and Young Astro will meet in the preliminaries.

Al Cassidy and Billy Carney, both of New Bedford, were in Lowell yesterday to arrange for future bouts. The Moody outfit is manager for Carney, Paul Domes, Young Manly, Tommy Flanagan, and many others, and he informed the writer that he had succeeded in signing up several of his boys for future bouts here. He declined to name names, but particularly those who met the winner of the Avlin-Gould bout while Deinera is ready and anxious for a crack at Mike Castles of Lawrence. Cassidy carried yards of clippings from New Bedford, Fall River, Brockton and other papers, showing past performances of his "tallent."

Word from Lawrence states that Franklin Burns is training vigorously and is expected back with Jimmie Loyd. He is working out in one of the Lawrence gymnasiums and reports that he is rapidly rounding into form.

Glen Killinger, athletic star at Penn State, has signed his contract with the New York Americans.

It is announced that Killinger will be a candidate for third base. Frank Baker cannot go on playing forever; sooner or later a successor must be found for him.

While Killinger played almost every position on the Penn State nine, he has always been partial to third base. He is to be given his opportunity to show at that position.

The fact that Killinger is to make his debut at third, recalls the number of colleagues who have made good in time to show at that position.

Arthur Devlin, one of the greatest third basemen of all time, came to the Giants from Georgetown. It didn't take him long to win a berth as a big leaguer. In National League circles when discussing third basemen, comparisons are always drawn with Devlin.

Frankie Frisch, who has already proved his greatness, and will go down into the records as one of the greatest of all third basemen, came to the Giants direct from Fordham college. He made good as soon as he was placed in the regular lineup.

Larry Gardner, who is still playing a brilliant game at third base for Cleveland despite his many years of service, got his early training at the difficult corner at the University of Vermont.

Gardner came to the Red Sox. He was sent to the New England league for a bit of seasoning. He returned after a year of play in that organization ready to deliver in the major.

The late Eddie Grant, one of the heroes of the world war, and who was one of the best third basers in the National league for years, played at Harvard.

The colleges seem to have a faculty of turning out a lot of mighty good infielders.

George Sisler, one of the greatest first basemen of all time, got his early training at University of Michigan. Sisler also starred on a pitcher while at that institution. He made good as a pitcher in the American league, but was transferred to first base because it was believed he would be of more value to his team by getting into the game every day.

Eddie Collins, who for 12 years has shown the way to the second basemen of both major leagues, learned the rudiments of the game at Columbia. His Connie Mack, after much experimenting, decided second base was Eddie's forte. Then there was Jack Harry, who for years starred at shortstop and later at second base, in the American league.

Joe DiMaggio came from Holy Cross to the majors and made good from the very start. Jack Barry hailed from the same college.

Will Killinger is up to the mark set by other famous collegians?

SPORTING NOTES

The latest plans for the new Penn stadium at Philadelphia call for a seating capacity of 60,000 people. However, for the present it is believed that 60,000 seats will be sufficient. It is the intention to immediately erect that number.

Two men selected by Walter Camp for his All-American eleven have been further honored by being elected captain. Fred Roberts, who captained Cornell in 1921, while Karp, placed at fullback by Camp, will lead Cornell.

It is said that Ohio state will be the first eastern team to enter in the California football competition. While Ohio agreed to the coast trip in 1920, that California would play a return game when the new stadium at State was finished. It will be completed in time for play next year.

Dave Danforth was weak in holding men on the bases when in the majors. It is said he has developed a great many since leaving Chicago, and is a treat at picking runners off first. It will be fine for Dave, unless the impulsive decision with him on the legacy of Eddie's forte. Then there was Jack Harry, who for years starred at shortstop and later at second base, in the American league.

Joe DiMaggio came from Holy Cross to the majors and made good from the very start. Jack Barry hailed from the same college.

May Break Young's Record of 23 Years in Game

BY BILLY EVANS

Cy Young had pitched 23 years when he retired from the major leagues.

Young's career is a record for service as a ball player. It has never been seriously threatened.

A contender for the honors held by Young looms up in the person of Pitcher Jack Quinn of the Boston Red Sox.

Quinn, it will be remembered, figured in the recent deal between New York and Boston, which sent him to the Red Sox and brought Pitchers Jones and Bush, as well as Shortstop Scott to New York.

When Quinn reports to the Red Sox next spring he will be starting on his 20th year for professional baseball. That would make him appear old in the point of years, yet he is only 36 years of age.

Quinn made his professional debut with Connellsville of the Pennsylvania State League in 1903. He remained with that team through the season of 1912.

The following year he was with Macon in the South Atlantic League. In 1913 he was with Richmond in the Virginia League.

That full through the medium of the draft he was secured by the New York American league club.

As a big leaguer Quinn met with success. He managed to stay in the big show until the fall of 1912, when he was sent to the Rochester club of the International League.

Jack Quinn has an excellent curve that defies the fact that he has never made much use of it. His curve ball is good enough to fool a lot of them.

In the effort to break the record held by Young, the Yankee pitcher is being given a tussle by Babe Adams of Pittsburgh.

Adams started at Parsons, in the Mississippi Valley League. Just a year later than Quinn, and will be starting his 19th year in the spring when he reports to the Pirates.

Other pitchers who have seen long service are Red Ames, with 19 years to his credit, and Eddie Plank with 18.

It is good showing in 1913 with Rochester, when he won 10 victories.

Young is a natural pitcher, who labored for two years at Baltimore in the outlaw organization.

When the peace pact was put over he was sent to Vernon, in the Pacific coast league, and remained here for the seasons of 1916, 1917 and part of 1918.

When the coast league closed because of the war, Quinn finished the season with the Chicago White Sox.

The New York American league club claimed the right to his services under the peace pact, and the national commissioners gave him to the Yankees.

He reported to the New York club in 1919 and has been with the Yankees ever since. Next year he will wear a Red Sox uniform.

Quinn has an excellent chance to break the record of Cy Young.

He has six more years to go in the minors.

It is to be hoped that he will be able to fool them in the minors for that length of time.

POCKETBOOKS "LIFTED"

Boys Confess to Larceny of Pocketbooks From Baskets and Satchels

Mysterious thefts of pocketbooks from baskets and satchels of local women shoppers which have been committed in the central part of the city in broad daylight during the past few weeks have been solved by the police with the apprehension of a gang of boys ranging in ages between 10 and 17 years, who, according to the inspectors of the department, had admitted their guilt, receiving a complaint from five women who said how their pocketbooks were picked out of their baskets or satchels while standing in Merrimack square talking to friends or while waiting for a car, during the afternoon hours within the last two weeks, the police immediately started an investigation. Through two of the complainants Patrolman Drewett learned that the thefts alleged had been committed by young boys. One of the women told the police her purse, which had been taken from a shopping basket which she carried on her arm, contained $29, while one other complainant said she had $6.50 in her pocketbook and other losses reported varied from $1 to $6. During the past ten days Patrolman Drewett has been busily engaged questioning boys under suspicion and finally yesterday afternoon picked up six boys who after a severe grilling by Capt. Atkinson and other inspectors confessed to having committed the thefts.

According to the police the boys were united in their thieving activities. They told the officers that they had lost most of the money, however, in playing dice. They further admitted that they had a place where they had thrown the pocketbooks and purses after emptying them of their contents.

The heavy snowfall late yesterday hindered the work of the inspectors who had started a search for them. Today the authorities are looking for several more boys believed to have been accomplices of the alleged young thieves against whom court procedure has been instituted.

Irish Prisoners Are Released

was issued by Winston Churchill, secretary for the colonies, reads:

"The king has been pleased, at the moment when the provisional Irish government is due to take office, to grant general amnesty with respect to all offenses committed in Ireland from political motives prior to the operation of the truce, July 11 last."

"The release of the prisoners to which his majesty applies, will begin forthwith."

"It is in the king's confident hope that this act of oblivion will aid in powerfully establishing relations of friendship and good will between the peoples of Great Britain and Ireland."

Figures given out in Dublin last night in anticipation of the amnesty proclamation, showed that 1016 persons, who probably would come under the classification of political prisoners, were still in confinement. This number includes 26 persons charged with murder, 121 with attempted murder, 473 with possessing arms, and 226 with crimes of violence, the others being held on minor charges. A few Sinn Fein "men" received sentence of death, these according to recent Belfast advices including the 16 men in jail there whose execution has been set for the latter part of January.

The man under confinement in the Irish Internment camps were released in December.

De Valera Calls Meeting

DUBLIN, Jan. 12.—(By the Associated Press) Leaders of the Sinn Fein faction opposing the peace treaty have been summoned for today by Eamon de Valera, deposed president of the Dail Eireann, to consider the general situation growing out of ratification of the treaty. Meanwhile Arthur Griffith, the new president, has started the machinery of his provisional government, one of his first acts being to summon the South Ireland parliament for a meeting on Saturday for the purpose of formally passing upon the treaty. This formal ratification is specifically provided for in the pact.

Wireless Reports Transport
Crook Riding Easily Under Her Own Steam

Has 150 Seamen, 13 Officers, 940 Men and Bodies of Many Soldiers Aboard

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—A wireless message received by the Army Transport Service in Brooklyn, today, said the United States transport Crook, which reported by radio yesterday that she had sprung a leak, was riding easily under her own steam through a moderate southwest gale.

Despatches from the captain yesterday indicated the seams that had opened had been caulked and cemented, but anxiety over the ship was not wholly abated today. Three ships were sent out by the war department to stand by the vessel which yesterday afternoon was reported to be about 400 miles from New York and south of them.

When she sailed from Europe, the Crook had a full cargo on board and carried, in addition to her crew of 150 seamen, 13 officers and 940 men from the army of occupation in Germany. In her hold there were many bodies of American soldiers who fell on European battlefields.

Heavy cross seas with a strong west wind cut down the Crook's speed to nine knots last night, and this forenoon she reported riding easy at three knots an hour. The relief steamer St. Michael too, was slowed down by the storm, and marine observers here said they could not estimate when the vessels would meet.

Because of the reduced speed, they did not expect the Crook to arrive before Saturday.

GETS COAL CONTRACT

D. T. Sullivan has been awarded the contract to supply the city department with hard and soft coal, in amounts needed between now and May 1, and delivery began today. The water department is not included in the contract, as all coal will be obtained in the city purchasing agent's office Tuesday morning.

FIRE ALARMS

There were one still and three telephones alarms today and all were for slight fires. The still was sent in at 11:15 for a slight blaze in the covering of a steam pipe at 71 Chapel street. Two telephone alarms were for a 6:05 o'clock chimney fire at 10 Billerica street; 6:11, chimney fire at 506 Wilder street, and 12:10, slight blaze in a room at 505 Fletcher street.

ASSAULT WITH KNIFE

Lewis Street Grocer Fined for Using Knife on Louis
Stomalois

Evangelos Pappolonetos, a Lewis street grocer, was fined $10 by Judge Enright in district court today for assaulting with a knife on Louis Stomalois on the morning of Dec. 24. It was alleged that the defendant cut Stomalois in the head with his left hand with a knife following an argument over the price of canned tomatoes. It was testified that Stomalois purchased macaroni, butter and lard, but before paying for these provisions inquired about the price of tomatoes. When told he would have to pay 15 cents a can, Stomalois remonstrated, stating he could buy them in other stores at two cans for 20 cents.

The plaintiff told the court that Evangelos avers at him and he, Stomalois, refused to buy the groceries the storekeeper had already prepared for him. Pappolonetos threatened to cut his head off. Stomalois testified, and following the passing of more heated words the defendant attacked him with a knife inflicting a severe cut on his left hand.

necessary plans. In one or two instances, Miss Dowd conformed with theatre representatives, who told her that a 50 per cent. division of the net profits was out of the question and intimated that 10 per cent. would be the limit under which they could operate.

If next Sunday's concerts had been given for the aid of St. John's hospital, the mayor intended to have the contributions on the following Sunday go to the city orphans.

Undoubtedly the theatre men will meet some time today or tonight, but no announcement was made this noon that there is nothing left to do except close their doors.

CHELMSFORD GIRL IS BEST BIRD FEEDER

Members of the Lowell Fish and Game association this morning started for various city parks and open areas within the city limits, armed with bags of grain for bird-feeding.

The storm of yesterday was heavy enough to go hard with bird-life in general, and an appeal was issued by the association today to all persons interested in helping to hand-feed the birds in the bird haunts where they can easily be found by the feathered songsters.

The association announces that it has plenty of feed on hand and those who wish to place the same out in the country may get a supply from any of the following officers of the local association: President Dr. C. R. Livingston, 258 Merrimack street; Treasurer R. F. Hayes, 15 Hubbard street, or Secretary W. S. Holt, at the Gorham street fire station.

Boy and Girl Scouts going out on hikes or snowshoeing can assist greatly in this work of placing food where birds can find it. The work is interesting to those who have followed it up year after year.

One of the camping bird feeders however is Mrs. Helen Read of Chelmsford Center, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilder C. Read of that village, who is a Girl Scout and an expert on snowshoes. Miss Read has fed nearly 100 pounds of grain to birds in one winter near the Robins Hill section of Chelmsford.

Several Boy Scouts of St. Anne's church under the direction of Hugh Thomas, have been very active in this work, and it is hoped by the Fish and Game association that many others will help to save the birds.

INVESTIGATING BRIDGE CONTRACT PAYMENT

Declaring that it is his belief that the first $20,000 payment made to the Engineering Service & Construction Co. for work on Central bridge, was not authorized by the old municipal council, and that the contract was not yet ratified, nor was there any competitive bidding, Mayor Brown said today that the department cut Stomalois in the head with his left hand with a knife following an argument over the price of canned tomatoes. It was testified that Stomalois purchased macaroni, butter and lard, but before paying for these provisions inquired about the price of tomatoes. When told he would have to pay 15 cents a can, Stomalois remonstrated, stating he could buy them in other stores at two cans for 20 cents.

Boston Barber Hired Laborers to his wife in Florida, not in Baltimore a man by the name of Walter Munson, whose exact address he cannot furnish, who offered him a "splendid" job in connection with his proposed "erection" of a thriving mill. The defendant at the time told the Baltimorean who offered to pay him 70 cents an hour for his work to begin with, that he would have to return to his job in Boston where he was expected. He again returned to Boston only to find that his barber's position had been filled. He again is in touch with "Manson" in Baltimore, who has notified him that he would accept the job.

He made an appointment with the Baltimore man in that city and several days later met him. The plans of what the Boston man was to do were gone over in detail and were to be carried out, he said, in the way the plaintiff furnished him. The defendant was to act as his employment agency in Greater Boston and obtain for him between 50 and 100 foreign laborers, to whom he was to sell the above mentioned brass checks at the price stated so that once they reached the Maryland city they would be easily assigned to their quarters, the $2.25 for the check being payment for the first day's board and room. The "employer" was to furnish transportation to Baltimore, saying he would send Vasconcellos a book of railroad tickets. The defendant several days ago came to Lowell and decided to start "Manson" at the Baltimorean. He spoke of the Baltimorean, who offered him a job in Princeton street yesterday afternoon. In the meantime, however, Manuel sold some of the checks to the men whose names the police obtained and which were given above. It was after the men had made the $3.25 payment and received nothing in return except the check, which signified nothing apparently, that they began to sue "Manson." They complained to the police and inspectors who were at once detailed to work on the case. Last evening Inspectors Maher, Walsh and Dwyer located Vasconcellos and placed him under arrest. The matter is being further investigated and attempts are being made to ascertain the identity of "Walter and

Notice of Suspension

The letter to be sent is as follows:

January 10, 1922.

Dear Sir:

You are hereby notified that I propose to indefinitely suspend you from the office of permanent foreman of the fire department of the City of Lowell for the reasons that the said position now filled by you is not necessary for the efficient conduct of the affairs of said department, and that the duties you have been performing can be transferred to other members of the department, and that the economic administration of said department will be best carried out by such suspension.

You are hereby notified further that you are entitled to a public hearing if you so desire. In accordance with the provisions of Chapter 31, general laws, and regulations, if you request a hearing within three days from the receipt of this notice, I shall call the action I have above indicated.

The cabinet meeting was concluded at 1 o'clock after a two hour session.

M. Briand concluded the cabinet. It was learned, that the Anglo-French pact was the best thing obtainable in the way of establishing French security, and that the entire cabinet, unanimously behind the pact, would go into the chamber this afternoon to stand or fall with the treaty. It is told them what I did at Cannes, not what I reported to have done.

M. Briand said, "It was not all golf playing there."

The contest in the cabinet meeting centered upon the advisability of suspending him from the office.

Premier Briand himself, however, favored the plan to have him appear before the chamber.

"I would not deprive myself of the pleasure of making a farewell appearance," M. Briand told the correspondents with a twinkle in his eye.

Crisis Must Be Ended

Upon the fate of the Brind government today rests not only the future policy of France, but perhaps Europe itself, it is believed here. French opinion holds that if opened to M. Briand and that favoring him, is unanimous in the words of Le Journal "the crisis of unrest which weakens the position of France both with her allies and her former enemies must be ended."

The newspaper points out that Sunday is Jan. 15, the date on which Germany is due to pay $60,000,000 gold marks in reparations. "If Germany fails to meet her obligations," Le Journal says, "and then no moratorium is accepted by France, there must be in Paris a government resolved to safeguard the rights of our country by putting in force the clauses of the treaty of Versailles."

The memorandum made public yesterday, outlining the British viewpoint on the Anglo-French agreement, has, if anything, increased the irritation of M. Briand's opponents, and the newspaper Le Figaro, which until recently was the principal supporter of Briand among the Paris press, has now become his most vociferous critic.

ONLY TWO EXECUTIONS

Col. Ham Says Two Soldiers Hanged at Is-Sur-Tille While He Was in Command

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Only two soldiers were hanged at Is-Sur-Tille while he was in command there from March to July, 1919. Col. Samuel V. Ham testified today before a Senate committee investigating charges that soldiers had been put to death in France without trial by court-martial.

Col. Ham declared that if a soldier started to retreat in battle and refused to fight, he "would shoot him if I thought it necessary to stop a rout."

"But," he added, "I have been in battle and never saw an American soldier run toward the rear in disobedience of orders."

John W. Hall of Boston, who was adjutant at Is-Sur-Tille, declared he was positive there were only two executions.

Similar testimony was given by Howell M. Baker of Richmond, Va., formerly an officer at the camp.

Frank A. Eble of Pittsburgh, testified that two executions took place while he was there.

Frank N. A. Eble of Washington, said he witnessed the two executions described by Col. Ham and other witnesses. He had heard of no others.

This cleaned up the list of witnesses already summoned and the hearing was adjourned until next Tuesday.

DROPPED DEAD WHILE SHOVELING SNOW

Lowell fox hunters learned with surprise and genuine regret this morning that an old hunting associate, James O'Brien, one of Granville's best known residents, had died suddenly this morning while shoveling snow near his home. Heavy trouble was the cause. He had been employed for many years as foreman of the little Granville Co. was a member of the Knights of Columbus of Lowell, and the Bay State Fox Hunters club.

Mr. O'Brien was 55 years old, and is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Harriet O'Brien of Granville, and Mrs. Bernard O'Brien of Worcester, also one brother, William O'Brien of Worcester. He attended St. Catherine's church in Granville and was a charter member of the Holy Name Society of that parish.

Move to Impeach Witness

been shown as yet that the statements were contradictory.

Matches testified last week that while he was led to believe that Robert Craig Hupp, one of the directors of the Emerson Motor Co., was a man of distinguished ability in the automobile industry he afterward decided he was traveling on a false reputation.

Referring to Matches' application for pardon, Beal said he advanced as one reason for asking executive clemency the fact that Hupp was a director of the company whose stock he was handling, and that Hupp had only won a high reputation at that time, but was at the time of the application a man of high standing in the industry as a maker and designer of automobiles.

Counsel for the respondent claimed that the good faith of Matches in statements he made to the district attorney in 1916 in regard that the Emerson Co. be not prosecuted, was a material issue in determining Pelleter's good faith in dismissing charges he was preparing to bring against the motor company. The prosecution on the other hand, urged that the matter was collateral, and that it had no bearing on the charges that Pelleter dismissed the case in pursuance of a conspiracy with Daniel H. Coakley, and Francis M. Carroll, Boston lawyers, after the Emerson Co. had paid them a fee of $20,500 to avert the threatened prosecution.

Charge Wealthy Woman Framed

BOSTON, Jan. 12.—Testimony involving Dist. Atty. Joseph C. Pelleter of Suffolk county, William J. Corcoran, former district attorney of Middlesex county, and Daniel H. Coakley, a Boston lawyer, in an alleged conspiracy to extort money from Curtis W. Emery, Mrs. Emery and Mrs. Jennie S. Chase, mother of Mrs. Emery, was presented in supreme court yesterday at the trial of Pelleter on charges of misconduct. The evidence was presented in connection with hearing on the 18th of the many specifications brought against Pelleter by Atty. Gen. J. Weston Allen who is seeking the district attorney's removal.

The state contends that Coakley was aided by Pelleter and Corcoran in the attempts to extort money from Mrs. Emery, as the mother of the law, a wealthy woman, and that indictments returned in both Middlesex and Suffolk counties in pursuit of the conspiracy remain on the unrepresented.

Victor L. Pappacane of Webster, the only witness in this case heard yesterday, was on the stand when court adjourned.

Loud Admitted it Looked Bad

Preston of Wakefield, that it looked bad for him but he was innocent.

Testifying today under reduced examination, State Police Officer Sidas P. Smith declared that Loud said: "It does look bad; I don't blame you, but for doing your duty, but I am innocent."

Under cross-examination, Smith admitted that Loud was taken to view the body of Preston a few hours after his arrest to no what effect it would have upon him. Smith said Loud was asked if he knew Preston. Looking down at the body, Loud said: "I don't think I ever did; I know I never did. I assume this was the killer who was shot; your fellow, I am sorry for him."

It was brought out under cross-examination of Smith that the button of a woman's coat found in Loud's car was not regarded as of any importance by the prosecution. State Officer Smith declared that an investigation disclosed that the button was similar to those found in an antique shop at which Loud traded. Smith testified that early in the investigation he had come to the conclusion that the button should be disregarded and he could not recall whether it had ever been shown to Loud.

AN EXCELLENT PROGRAM DEBATE IN HIGH SCHOOL

Splendid Attraction Under Auspices of The Lowell
Teachers' Organization

An unusually fine program of cello and piano selections was given at St. Anne's parish house yesterday afternoon, by Georges and René Longly-Miquelle. The entertainment was under the auspices of the Lowell Teachers' organization, Miss Caroline A. Downey, president, and in spite of the raging storm, a number of the organization's members were present and enjoyed the excellent music.

The Teachers' organization has been hampered greatly during the winter by storms, which seem to come almost by prearrangement on the dates set for their entertainments. Tide was particularly unfortunate yesterday, when such a splendid attraction had been secured.

Mr. and Mrs. Miquelle's program was, in substance, as follows:

1. Sonata in G major—Seminario (1770-1770) Allegro—Grave—Pianoforte.
2. Cello Solos.
 - (a) Allegro Spiritoso—Seminario
 - (b) Air Jean Lure
 - (c) Chardas Monti
 - (d) Capriccio Scarlatti
 - (e) Romance in F sharp—Schumann
 - (f) Toccata Saint-Saens
3. Piano Solos.
 - (a) Allegro—Spiritoso—Seminario
 - (b) Air Jean Lure
 - (c) Chardas Monti
 - (d) Capriccio Scarlatti
 - (e) Romance in F sharp—Schumann
 - (f) Toccata Saint-Saens
4. Sonata in A minor, opus 36—Grieg Andante—Allegro agitato.

STORM NOW CENTRAL OVER MAINE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—The winter storm which yesterday swept the northeastern section of the United States in an icy blizzard and buffeted the Atlantic coast with gales ranging in velocity up to 70 miles an hour, today was central over southeastern Maine, according to weather bureau reports.

Cold wave warnings were ordered for northern New England and northeastern New York with the prediction that storms tonight in the south as central Florida.

Downeaster Man Dies.
PROVIDENCE, Jan. 12.—The second victim of the winter went Cape Cod yesterday, accompanied with a driving rain and thick weather, causing the death of one man by drowning and much damage along the waterfront.

Several of the hundred fishing boats, and a number of the smaller pleasure boats left the harbor early yesterday morning. The southerner, for whom hurricane signals were hoisted at 5 a.m. on come up so quickly a majority of the boats were only half way back when the storm was at its height.

The downeaster boats, being much larger than the dories, came through the storm worse, for their hard experience, although the hoop signature was after making the harbor safely, failed to make her mooring and grounded on the beach. Another, the Arthur and Matthew, broke from her mooring and piled up on the beach near the flats.

The boat was chipping, anchors were put out and they were floated at high tide after the storm had abated. The gasoline dories suffered much worse trying to make port. John Gomes and his partner were swamped coming up around West End, and the duty sank immediately. John Gomes, a fisherman, was a canoe, over, down with it. His partner, who was at the wheel, was picked up by John Costa, who was just behind them in his dory. Costa grabbed his man by the hair, and although being nearly pitched overboard himself by the heavy seas, braced himself with one under his engine, and his partner was not lost, but burned a large hole through Costa's rubber boot.

Explosive Unites French.

SPRINGFIELD, Jan. 12.—A heavy fall of snow, accompanied by a high wind, continued through the day, covering Springfield and vicinity with a 16-inch coating of snow at 10 o'clock last night and the storm was still racing.

An unidentified man, about 65 years old, was found dead near Bay street by a truck driver late yesterday afternoon. He was apparently a victim of the storm. When found he had been dead but a short time. There were no marks of violence on his body and Medical Examiner Frederick D. Jones, who observed the body, said that death was undoubtedly due to exposure.

Two H. H. Workers Killed.
FRAMINGHAM, Jan. 12.—Two rail-road section workers, Eddie Reinhardt, 25, and John P. Hall, 27, were fatally injured late yesterday when they were struck by an express train on the Boston & Albany line while at work cleaning switches two miles west of here. They died soon after having been taken to the Framingham hospital.

The driving rainstorm, together with the steam from a locomotive, is said to have hidden the approach of the locomotive.

Hurricane Signals Hoisted.

PORTLAND, Me., Jan. 12.—Hurricane signals were hoisted by the weather bureau for the second time in its history yesterday, when the southern storm struck Portland and vicinity. Eight inches of snow fell and the wind, with a velocity of 40 miles an hour, swept across the city. Telegraph and telephone systems suffered somewhat while a few of the trains from the west were late.

Post Graduate Boys Were Awarded Victory Over
Senior Girls Yesterday

The Greenhaze Debating Society held its first debate of the season yesterday afternoon, in the high school, when a team composed of boys of the 1921 class, who are taking a postgraduate course, defeated a team made up of senior girls. The winning side upheld the affirmative side of, Resolved: That the United States government shall recognize the soviet government of Russia.

While all of the contestants delivered their speeches in a remarkable manner, the subject appeared a little dead for them, and only in a few instances were allegations substantiated by a fair preponderance of evidence. During the presentation of the arguments the negative side appeared to have all the best of it, but when it came to the rebuttal the affirmative not only answered every demand made upon it in a reasonable manner, but took steps to certain allegations made by the negative side in a manner which greatly weakened the arguments against the point at issue.

The affirmative attempted to show that the soviet government was a stable one, and that it maintained as other large world powers, the soviet, Russia, the United States could not do otherwise, and maintain its position in the world. Attention was also called to the great natural resources of Russia.

The negative claimed Russia was not a fit country to recognize and that it was full of Reds who were not fit to deal with. The case of Wall Street, the stock market, was cited as an example to show the culture of people the affirmative side urged the United States to deal with.

In opening the debate, James Howe of the affirmative side, reminded the audience that every one of the contestants were loyal Americans and of facts that could be proved, and which had been proved, would be used.

The affirmative side was composed of James Howe, Myer Arlinsky and Myer Lipshitz, while the negative side was made up of Dorothy Whiting, Mary N. Sullivan and Frances Richardson. They spoke in the order named.

All the speakers were well received and applauded after their addresses but the performance of Mr. Lipshitz and Miss Richardson, both anchor members of their teams, was especially brilliant. During the argument and rebuttal, these speakers appeared at ease and delivered their lines clearly, and in a convincing manner.

The judges, Hiram H. Gandy, principal of the school, John D. McKinley, Instructor in Latin, and Morton A. Sturtevant, Instructor in English, were divided in their opinion, as the vote was two to one. David P. Connors, president of the Greenhaze society, presided over the meeting.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS TO REGULATE LIQUOR.

GENEVA, Jan. 12.—(By Associated Press)—The question of regulation of the liquor trade with Africa and the aftermath of the attempt of ex-Emperor Charles at the restoration of the Hapsburg dynasty in Hungary completed yesterday's session of the League of Nations Council, which consisted mostly of routine matters.

A report and a decision for neutralization of the Aland Islands was the foremost of the council's business yesterday and occasioned the greatest satisfaction. The council's supporters pointed out that settlement of the Aland question was a sign of world confidence in the council's authority.

Belgium has been requested by the council to establish at Brussels an international office to regulate the spirits traffic with Africa.

The council, in acknowledging a letter from Hungary in which it was contended that Sir James Eadie Drummond, general secretary of the League of Nations, should have summoned the Council of the League at the time the ex-emperor made his attempt, replied that the secretary had no authority to act, and the council not desire to discuss the situation now as it would be useless.

The council voted to name a committee to study methods of conciliation between nations of the world as proposed by Norway and Sweden.

Rejection of the German demands against the chairmanship of the Sauro Valley governing commission, being held by a Frenchman and protection of Balile minorities, were questions which occupied attention yesterday morning.

The council, upon motion by Great Britain, accepted the obligations in the convention for the council's guarantee for extinction of the Aland Islands treaty and defense of the legal status of the islands.

This is the first League of Nations agreement involving the guaranty of

THE OLD HOME TOWN

REVISION OF NAVAL LIMITATION TREATY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12. (By the Associated Press)—A difference of opinion regarding rules for the disposition of prescribed battleships remained to be settled by the "big five" today when they resumed their final revision of the naval limitation treaty.

Agreement on this point was expected without prolonged debate, however, and with the entire text of the treaty proper already virtually approved and the first of the treaty annexes embodying a replacement chart dispensed with, the delegation heads hoped to have the treaty completed and ready for public discussion at a plenary session Saturday or Monday. To make this possible, the Japanese delegates expect to receive tomorrow Tokio's reply to their message regarding the Pacific fortifications agreement.

The Japanese and Chinese held another meeting today on the Shantung question after reaching a tentative agreement yesterday regarding withdrawal of Japanese troops within the province.

Public attention has been drawn to the question by the fact that a recent fire in Chelsea, in which damage to the amount of $75,000 was done, is believed to have been caused by such an explosion.

During the past year, Marshal Neal said today, there have been several fires caused by exploding stills, but none have caused such extensive damage as that in Chelsea. The marshal expressed confidence that private owners of property can recover for damages in such cases, and that cities and towns may also recover for the expense to them of extinguishing any fire which may result from such an explosion.

Marshal Neal urges that every chief of police insist on his patrolmen to make a careful canvass along their routes to ascertain the places where stills are being operated, and then to bring the operators into both the state and federal courts. In this way, he said, life can be made so unhappy for the amateur distillers that they will ultimately be forced out of business.

ABOUT ONE HUNDRED
AND FIVE YEARS AGO

Boston people heard of Henry Duncan's savings bank for the working people.

A group of citizens who wanted to help the city, and the people who lived in it, decided to start a savings bank after Duncan's idea.

A savings bank was opened in Boston in December, 1816, and was the first savings bank in America to be granted a charter.

Soon other banks were started in different places, so that today there are 106 of them in Massachusetts alone.

Savings banks are for the safe keeping and safe investing of the people's money.

CITY COUNCIL MEETING

GAVE "SURE THING" TIPS

Councilors Will Meet This Evening—Busy and Important Session Anticipated

The city council will hold its third regular meeting since organization tonight at 8 o'clock and it is expected that more real business will be transacted than at the two previous meetings combined.

Substantiation for this belief is found by many people at city hall in the fact that an informal conference of councilors has occurred since the last regular meeting, only weeks ago, the best of its kind, and that the discussions of this private session have paved the way for smoother and faster business accomplishment to-night.

If the council wishes in the majority to take action on the election of five administrative officers, it can vote to take from the table the nominations of Charles E. Alway for chief of the fire department; John Y. Myers for purchasing agent; Edward J. Mulvey for superintendent of charities; Francis A. Wurlock for superintendent of public buildings and W. C. MacBrayne for superintendent of police.

In addition to this quintet, the council has not yet elected a city auditor.

Mayor George H. Brown already has intimated that he will not send any further nominations to the council until the present batch on the table is acted upon. In case this is done, however, the mayor undoubtedly will send more names along for the council's consideration. New nominations probably would include three men for the board of assessors.

The committee on rules, Councillor McAllister, chairman, will make a report tonight. If the work of that committee is finished, request probably will be made to have some action taken on their adoption.

Hayloft Opposite Racing Park Connected by Wire

With N. Y. Betting Agents

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 12.—A hayloft opposite the race grounds racetrack, a pair of field glasses and a telephone, said to be connected with New York, played the leading role in the arrest of two men yesterday when a lone policeman raided a barn in the rear of a residence on Encampment street.

The men gave their names as John Tracy and John Butler.

Butler and Tracy, according to the police, said they had been using the hayloft and telephone to make "sure thing" bets in New York. As soon as a horse won a race, the police said
